Sirhan Told He Must Die

Kennedy's Plea for Mercy Fails As Judge Rules on Gas Chamber

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His he was convicted on five counts face expressionless, Sirhan Bis- of assault with a deadly weapon was sentenced to on. die for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"Sirhan shed not one tear," Grant B. Cooper, Sirhan's chief defense attorney, said after ac- V. Walker pronounced the death sentence Wednesday for the 25-year-old Palestinian Arab de- courthouse.

Sirhan's mother, Cooper said, "broke down and cried when she left him in his cell."

Mary Sirhan, 55, had heard the death sentence for her son with bowed head in a seat next to the wall, halfway back in the spectator's section of the court- house.

Beside her, another son, Mu- nir, 22, listened calmly.

Motion Denied

The sentence came after Judge Walker denied a defense motion for a new trial and heard a mercy plea from the slain senator's family.

"My brother was a man of love and sentiment and compas- sion," said a letter, hand-writ- ten by Sen. Edward Kennedy, read into the record by Cooper. "He would not have wanted his death to be a cause for the taking of another life."

"You may recall his pleas- ure when he learned of the death of Martin Luther King. He said celebration that what we need in the United States is not division ... not hatred ... not violence or law- lessness but love and wisdom and compassion towards one an- other."

"Committed to Life"

"Moreover, he was a young man totally committed to life and living ... If the kind of man my brother was is per- tinent, we believe it should be weighed in the balance on the side of compassion, mercy and God's gift of life itself."

The 69-year-old judge said: "Let the record show I've read and considered the letter ... In pronouncing sentence, Walker said: "It is the feeling

Warren Burger Selected To be Next Chief Justice

Nixon Picks 'His Kind' Of Jurist for Top Spot On U. S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has selected his kind of "law and order" judge, Warren Earl Burger, to succeed Earl Warren as the 15th chief justice of the United States. The gray-haired, 61-year-old Midwesterner, a veteran of 13 years on the U. S. Circuit Court here, is known as a strict constructionist, who has criticized "appellate nit-picking."

Senators, particularly conservatives, hailed Burger's selection. If confirmation is as swift and easy as appears likely, Burger will step in next term for Warren, who is retiring at 78 after piloting the Supreme Court through its most active and liberal period.

The choice was a relatively obscure one, though Burger has a solid reputation in legal circles. His immediate predecessors, Warren, Fred M. Vinson, Harlan F. Stone and Charles Evans Hughes, all had national reputations when they were picked to be chief justice.

Most Important

Nixon announced the nomination to the country from the White House Wednesday night. He said it was the most important one a President can make. While campaigning for the presidency, Nixon said court decisions were "seriously ham- stringing the peace forces in our society and strengthening the criminal forces."

He called for vindication of "the first civil right of every American, the right to protec- tion in his home, business and person from domestic vio- lence."

Spoke at Ripon

The White House, in a state- ment, said Burger's philosophy was reflected in a commeen- ment speech he made two years ago at Ripon College, in Ripon, Wis. It began:

"Government exists chiefly to foster the rights and interests of its citizens—to protect their homes and property, their persons and their lives."

Burger called his selection "a tribute to all the federal and state judges of the nation who day in and day out perform the difficult task of the administra- tion of justice."

Brief Celebration

His wife, Evera, kissed him on the cheek, and together they went to the Yellow Oval Room in the White House, where they were joined by the President, Mrs. Nixon and some guests for a brief celebration.

Warren, meanwhile, issued a statement congratulating Bur- ger, wishing him success and happiness and declaring: "I will be glad to do anything I can to facilitate his taking over the du- ty."

'Snoopy Is All Go' Astronauts Set for Descent

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Apollo 10 astro- nauts transferred into a fragile lunar landing craft today, re- ported it in "go" condition and prepared to make man's closest approach to the moon's surface, a daring descent to within 50,000 feet of the Sea of Tranquility.

Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan crawled through a three-foot tunnel into the spi- ral hatch of the Lunar Module, in mid-morning and began check- ing the craft's complex systems. They were in their second day in lunar orbit. After an hour, in which minor communications problems were cleared up, Cernan reported: "Snoopy is all go. I found nothing wrong with it."

Snoopy is the radio code name for the LEM. The command ship, manned by Navy Cmdr. John W. Young, is called Char- lie Brown.

Stafford and Cernan were to leave Young alone in the com- mand module, or LEM, in a sloop down toward a land- scape which they described quickly in terms such as assemble the results in the "rugged planet," "fantastic," and "out of this world."

In the most perilous moments of the mission, they twice are to skim at nine times the speed of sound just 9.3 miles over a land- ing site they are scouting for a July landing by two Apollo 11 astronauts.

Earlier, mission control center read Young an appropriate horoscope for the day. It read: "Everybody you know has something to offer. Listen care- fully and make the rounds quickly. Put in a busy day and Wednesday in terms such as assemble the results in the

U.S. Unveils Its Plan to Ban Nuclear Weapons on Seabed

GENEVA (AP) — The United States submitted a draft treaty today to ban nuclear arms and other weapons of mass destruc- tion from the seabed.

The draft, put before the 17-nation disarmament conference, was in answer to a Soviet draft presented March 18. It calls for complete demilitarization of the seabed, a concept which the United States rejected.

In addition to the restriction on weapons to be banned, the U.S. draft differs from the Soviet proposal on three key points:

1. It would apply to the seabed three miles from the coast and beyond. The Soviet ban would start at 12 miles.
2. Verification would be by "observation and consultation." The Soviet proposal calls for U.S. officials say is "ambiguous."
3. The U.S. draft calls for a peaceful use of the seabed," he said. "At the same time, it would reduce the verification problem to manageable proportions and would be consistent with the security interests of coastal states."

He added that the Soviet draft, which opens all installa- tions and structures on the seabed to verification, presents "immense technical problems."

There are on the seabed "exist- ing claims of national jurisdic- tion and a growing number of scientific and commercial uses which raise many difficult polit- ical and legal questions," he said.

Soviet delegate Alexei A. Roshchin told newsmen he was "in a way" disappointed by the American draft but it was too early to say whether it dimmed prospects of agreement.

'I'll Throw Rocks at Every Airplane'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board ex- aminer's ruling that reduced air fares for young people are discriminatory and should be canceled has drawn the wrath of the under-21 set.

"If you get rid of the youth fare program, I will throw rocks at every airplane I see," an Ohio girl wrote to the CAB.

"Talk about student dis- order — just you wait," warned a Massachusetts student.

"Without youth fares many girls would be unable to see their boy friends," pleaded a student at a girls' school. "I am serious when I say that discontinuance will put me and many, many other girls in a very difficult position."

CAB member Whitney Gillil- land called the thousands-upon- thousands of letters an event of unprecedented proportions. A majority of the youthful writers are directing their wrath mistakenly against the board, which has not yet reached a decision. In fact, a previous CAB refusal to enter- tain complaints against the youth fares sent the matter into the courts, which ordered the board to make an investi- gation.

At a hearing before Ex- aminer Arthur S. Present, 14 of the airlines supported the fares, and five took no posi- tion.

The CAB's Bureau of Eco- nomics contended, however, that promotional fares of this type were reasonable, con- tributed to highway safety by inducing accident-prone young persons to fly rather than drive, and reduced the num- ber of highway hitchhikers.

Present ruled last Jan. 21 that there was no justification for discriminating a gainst older passengers. He said older passengers are harmed by having to pay a regular fare while youngsters are carried at half or two-thirds fare.

Dynamic Yugoslavia Wary of Freedom

By GERALD MILLER
Associated Press Writer

BELGRADE (AP) — Cars and Coca-Cola. A second house in the country. Sizzling strip teases. Younger people in higher places, and more freedom. The sweet smell of success.

These are elements of the heady picture of life for many people these days in Yugoslavia, that paradox of a country where socialism swings, where many a Communist shudders at the thought of conventional communism, where the economy is more market than Marxist.

"The good times have arrived for this country," observes an American diplomat stationed in Belgrade. "The place is booming."

Indeed it is, despite areas of poverty, persistent fears of the Soviet Union in the wake of the Czech invasion, and worries about what will happen after Tito.

Unique Blend

In the world of communism Yugoslavia today is a thing apart. It is neither democracy as America knows it nor communism as Russia knows it. Yugoslavia is a unique blend of Marxist ideals and capitalist practice. In politics there is only one party and Yugoslav leaders vow there will never be another. But a man can run against a Communist as an independent. Bills can be defeated in Parliament.

The country is dictatorship, but the people enjoy a growing degree of freedom. Almost anything or anyone can be criticized. Almost anything goes except open challenge of the system itself or its main pillar—President Josip Broz Tito.

The big breakthrough toward the dynamism now at work began in 1966 when Tito took his independent form of communism around a drastic new turn toward Western ways. In a major gamble, Tito stripped all businesses of government support and devalued the dinar with the aim of making it a convertible currency by 1970. At one stroke he exposed the sluggish economy to open competition with capitalism and warned, in effect, "Sink or swim."

Transformation

The immediate effect was hardship. Prices went up. Inefficient enterprises went under. Unemployment rose.

But soon a transformation began taking effect, moving Yugoslavia into the world of the mass consumer.

Today a spirit of ferment, experimentation and excitement is abroad in the land, untested by an explosion of opportunities and rising expectations.

"People became suddenly aware that the more and better they work, the more they could earn," says a Belgrade journalist who holds a regular newspaper job and works on the side as a private photographer and translator. "Suddenly it was a runaway economy."

With workers getting a share of the income their companies earn, production has skyrocketed, pouring a growing flood of consumer items onto a market hungry for them.

Much Moonlighting

Yugoslavs want the good life of material comfort and are hustling for it. Moonlighting is widespread as people scramble for extra income. Small private enterprises—from shoe shine stands to small restaurants and shops—have mushroomed. Peasants with some extra capital buy trucks for a little hauling business in their spare time. Workers employed by day on construction projects do carpentry and painting and paper-hanging weekends and nights.

Small entrepreneurs operating businesses of their own can hire up to five employees before regulations turn the business into a "public enterprise" run by workers' councils. Many bring in relatives—who don't officially count as employees—to work in growing business operations like restaurants, laundries and hotels.

Installment buying has become a way of life. "We may not be as rich as Americans," jokes a secretary in Belgrade. "But we're almost as deep in debt."

"Would you believe it?" says another Belgrade resident. "Yugoslavia imports tomatoes from the Canary Islands for 12 dinars ($1) a kilo (2.2 pounds). Can you imagine a socialist country even dreaming of such an expensive thing?"

Take for Granted

Anywhere else in East Europe, no. But in this country, free-swinging new attitudes toward goods and money have narrowed the gap between necessity and luxury. Stores bulge with items many Yugoslavs now take for granted—cameras, high-style clothes, elegant hi-fi sets, lines of imported cosmetics, foreign drinks.

Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola are touted by American-style jingles sung in Slovenian and Serbo-Croat over the state radio network.

Scotch whisky has become a status symbol. Dr. Viktor Kormarecky, a Belgrade physician, received a gift of appreciation from a Serbian peasant he had treated. It was not a basket of eggs or a bottle of home-brewed slivovitz. The peasant handed the doctor a fifth of Johnny Walker.

Yugoslavs like to laugh about such things. "Just three years ago a peasant girl was following her oxen in the fields," goes one story. "Now in Belgrade where she came to work as a housemaid, she looks haughty and asks her friends, 'Will you have a Scotch with soda or on the rocks?'"

Traffic Problem

Parking and exhaust fumes are a growing problem in all the cities. Driving schools thrive. Every third car in auto-packed Belgrade carries a "learner" warning plaque on the back. New cars stand gleaming near manure piles in Croatian and Serbian peasant villages. Two-car families are no longer uncommon and now the ultimate in consumer striving is a second home—a house in the country.

With money, modernization and an influx of tourism, culture too has taken a new turn. Theater, opera, music and art are enjoying lush times. Pop records are popular. Young people have started forming their own rock groups. A new breed of movie director has emerged. Young and technically slick, they have won prizes in Western film festivals.

In the main, Yugoslavs are an earthy people in matters of sex. But no one here has ever seen such a splurge as the current flowering of bare flesh on newsstands, the explicit columns of sex advice in the breezy, tabloid newspapers and the torrid love scenes in domestic films.

Dress Like Hippies

Many young people have seized on the customs of their contemporaries in the West, growing long hair, dressing like hippies or the Beatles, mouthing the same slang, listening to the same music.

This ferment is not occurring without serious disruptions and pain.

This is a hodge-podge of a country—a welter of five nationalities, 12 languages, four religions, two alphabets and centuries of historic animosities among its various peoples. That Tito has been able to hold the volatile mixture together at all is considered in itself something of a political miracle.

The changes sweeping the country are uneven and they are stirring tensions among many of the 20 million Yugoslavs. Peasants in the more backward areas, Moslems and Macedonians and Albanian-speaking peoples in the undeveloped south, are not advancing as rapidly as others. About a fifth of the national population is still illiterate.

Stagnation and grinding poverty still prevail in the south. An estimated 300,000 out of a national labor force of 3.5 million are jobless.

Months ago rioting broke out in southern Serbia among Albanians there, a people at the bottom of the economic scale with the lowest jobs. They resent the more prosperous Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, and are resentful in turn. They rioted in favor of breaking away from this country to join Albania, Yugoslavia's neighbor to the south.

The government clamped down on them hard.

Even in cities like Belgrade, Zagreb, and Ljubljana the average Yugoslav has a struggle with inflation. Many have to spend at least half their incomes on food alone.

Housing is desperately short. The cities are swollen by a growing flight of peasants from the land in search of a better living in urban centers.

Families live cramped in one-and two-room apartments. And money isn't the answer. People with enough money to buy a weekend house in the country costing $10,000 or so can't be assured of finding an adequate apartment in town.

Though many people are making it big, the less aggressive and enterprising, the less qualified, are suffering badly.

For them the changes, the new sophistication and the seeking for status in possessions are causes of confusion and unhappiness.

Just 20 yards off Terazije Square, the Times Square of Belgrade, a grizzled Serbian bootblack looked at the passing cars and told a customer bitterly: "I have six months to feed and I won't take home 25 dinars tonight." That's $2.

Among people like the bootblack there seems a yearning for the old days when there was a rough equality of poverty and suffering and life seemed simpler.

It's the same for a lot of the peasant. Many small farmers are in bad trouble. In an attempt to cure inflation the gov-

Young Hobby Club Save Flowers by Pressing Petals Around Flower Stem

Boys and girls who collect flowers and press them know that some of the prettiest specimens cannot be pressed satisfactorily because they are too thick. However, individual petals of all flowers can be pressed beautifully by following today's directions.

Carefully take a few petals off each flower and press them between sheets of waxed paper in an old book. In pulling a petal from a flower, be sure to remove even that part which fastens it to the stem (see the petals in figure 1). If the edges of the petal turn up, as many do, lay it face down in the book so it will be pressed flat.

Let the petals remain in the book until they are dry, then mount them on sheets of black or green construction paper. At the base of each petal place a small drop of glue, then attach the petal to the paper, creating a neat pattern as the girl in figure 2 is doing.

The specimens can be protected by covering each piece of construction paper with a sheet of cellophane which can be taped in place.

You will not need many petals of each kind of flower, but have at least one of each variety. In the case of pansies, where only a few petals make a whole flower, save a complete set.

Black Jesus Image Urged By Groppi

LONDON (AP)—A white Roman Catholic priest from Milwaukee told a World Council of Churches meeting Wednesday that pictures of Christ as a black man should be put up in churches to help Negroes get over a feeling of inferiority.

"Black people are forced to kneel to a white Jesus, and the white man is a symbol of oppression, past and present," said the Rev. James E. Groppi, organizer of open housing marches in Milwaukee.

Father Groppi, one of four Roman Catholic priests at the council's conference on racism, said the church "ought to make it a sin for whites to own property or to run businesses in a black community."

"Give the black man back his turf so he can have some determination over his life," he said.

Program Against Racism

Father Groppi told delegates assigned to prepare a program against racism for approval of the Council's central committee that he thought there was little they could do.

"The church is a white racist institution," he said. "The people who shout, 'black bastards, go back to Africa' go to church on Sunday."

"The church should teach revolution," he said.

Father Groppi suggested that there should be different sets of ethics for white and poor blacks. He said that when a Negro child confesses to stealing from a supermarket, he asks the child only one question.

"Did you get caught?"

UW Statistics Forecast Fewer, But Larger Farms in Winnebago

Weight of corn is the only accurate measure, and volume is the second best measure when determining the amount of ear corn in a round crib.

Square the radius of the round crib, multiply times 3.1416, and multiply this answer times the depth of corn. This answer is the amount of cubic feet in the crib. There are two and one-half cubic feet in a bushel of ear corn. A crib 12-foot diameter with 14 feet of corn comes out to about 633 bushels.

Benzene dichloride crystals used for clothes moth control and as a washroom deodorant, will drive bats out of an attic, squirrels out of a garage, or skunks from under a plank barn floor.

An Oshkosh caller reported squirrels taking over their cottage in Waupaca County. They presumably entered through an unscreened fireplace flue. A pound or two of the crystals will get the squirrels going out of the cottage but when the crystals vaporize and the odor leaves, they'll return to their home unless their entrance is guarded.

One year squirrels were stripping bark off a young elm tree by our house. An onion bag of benzene crystals in the tree drove away the squirrels, and birds for a few days. Only the clothes moth and related pests, their larvae and the adult moth forms, however, are killed by the vaporizing crystals.

Home owners, conservation tree planters and fruit growers have three major weed herbicides to consider at this season. Directions on labels must be followed to insure best results. They are, 2, 4-D, which is excellent in liquid or pellet form for control of broadleaf weeds such as thistles or dandelions. It has no effect on grass, but application is not advised for weed control on newly seeded lawns or Colonial creeping Bent grass.

Simazine is excellent applied on barren soil, or on lawn grass when it's less than an inch tall, to kill lawn grass around trees or raspberry bushes, and annual weeds germinating in barren soil. It's good for the asparagus patch after the last picking in late June. Work up the soil and apply it. The rate to apply is on the label, or check with our office for instructions.

Amino Triazole is excellent on all weeds including all grasses when sprayed on the pests providing they are not over three, a maximum of six inches tall. It is not a selective herbicide, what you spray will lose its green color. Woody plants are not injured providing you don't spray the leaves, or needles in case of evergreens. The soil is not effected by amitrole.

Simazine most effective when applied in November; 2,4-D is most effective when broadleaf weeds are reaching the flower stage; and triazole is best before hot weather and only short leafed plants may be controlled as described above. Most local garden centers have these products.

Quarterly Report

Wisconsin Milk Output Dips Reflecting National Trend

"So goes Wisconsin, so goes the nation," could describe decreased milk production in the United States during the first quarter of 1969, according to the Wisconsin Statistical Reporting Service.

Statistics show that national milk output from January to April dropped 900 million pounds from a year earlier. Wisconsin's reduction was about 250 million pounds, or more than a fourth of the total drop in the nation. Wisconsin produces about 16 per cent of the national milk supply.

Wisconsin milk production in April of 1.6 billion pounds was 3 per cent below last year, the lowest for the month since 1957. Statisticians attributed the decreased production to a smaller number of cows and a lower output per cow. Wisconsin milk output per cow is down 2 per cent from last year, reversing a long-time trend. State dairy herds produced 6 billion pounds of milk during the first quarter of 1969, or 4 per cent less than in the same 1968 Wisconsin Statistical Reporting period.

April milk production in the nation was estimated at 10.3 billion pounds and the first quarter total was 38.4 billion pounds. Production in both April and the first quarter represented a 2 per cent decrease over comparable months of 1968.

Due to a smaller milk supply, dairy plants in the state have reduced output of both butter and American cheese. During the first quarter of 1969, Wisconsin dairy plants produced 13 per cent less butter and 4 per cent less American cheese than last year. Wisconsin normally produces about a fifth of the annual butter output of the nation and about one-half of the American cheese.

West Bloomfield Farm 'Large' at 27 Acres

WEST BLOOMFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Robbert here have one of the "biggest" little dairy farms in the state.

Together they operate a 27-acre dairy farm. Robbert also operates a welding shop.

Mrs. Robbert said they have six milk cows, two heifers and two calves. They also have two sows and each year raise from 18-20 market hogs.

"That is all we can handle," she said, explaining that Robbert is kept busy with farm and welding work.

Annual Crops
They plant three acres of oats and three acres of corn each year. The six acres provides most of the feed needed for their stock.

"It's sandy loam here, that's why we can raise so much," Mrs. Robbert said. "I don't buy much feed," Robbert said, adding that last year he did make a little extra hay.

He didn't buy any extra corn this year although he once bought four tons of corn when he raised 21 market hogs. Robberts says during a normal year he doesn't have to buy any corn.

Farm Career
The couple has been farming the 27-acre plot for 21 years. They have lived on the site for 30 years and Robbert opened his welding shop 30 years ago last month.

Robbert began welding after taking the advice of his father-in-law. With tutoring from Leo Niemuth, a Waupaca foundry welder, he learned the art.

After opening the welding business he ran a garage repair shop from 1939 until 1940 when because of his health he had to try a different job. "He said he bought 25 additional acres to try farming.

There was no barn so he moved a 16 by 52-foot barn on the property.

"I started by buying four yearlings," Robbert said. After the heifers freshened "I had cows to milk, and was in the dairy business."

"After a while I got into the pig business too," he said.

Busy Business

Operating both the repair shop and the farm keeps him "very, very busy," he said. "I do my farm work at night," explaining the double-duty operation keeps him busy "almost around the clock."

Spring and fall are the busiest times of the year at his repair shop.

When he started farming Robbert used his talent as a welder to make his own "tractor." He converted a 1929 Chevrolet into a tractor by installing the differential of a model T Ford truck in it. "That gives it quite a bit of power," he noted.

Makes Tractor

Robbert added a crane and cables on the back of the car for hoisting machinery and setting up farm equipment.

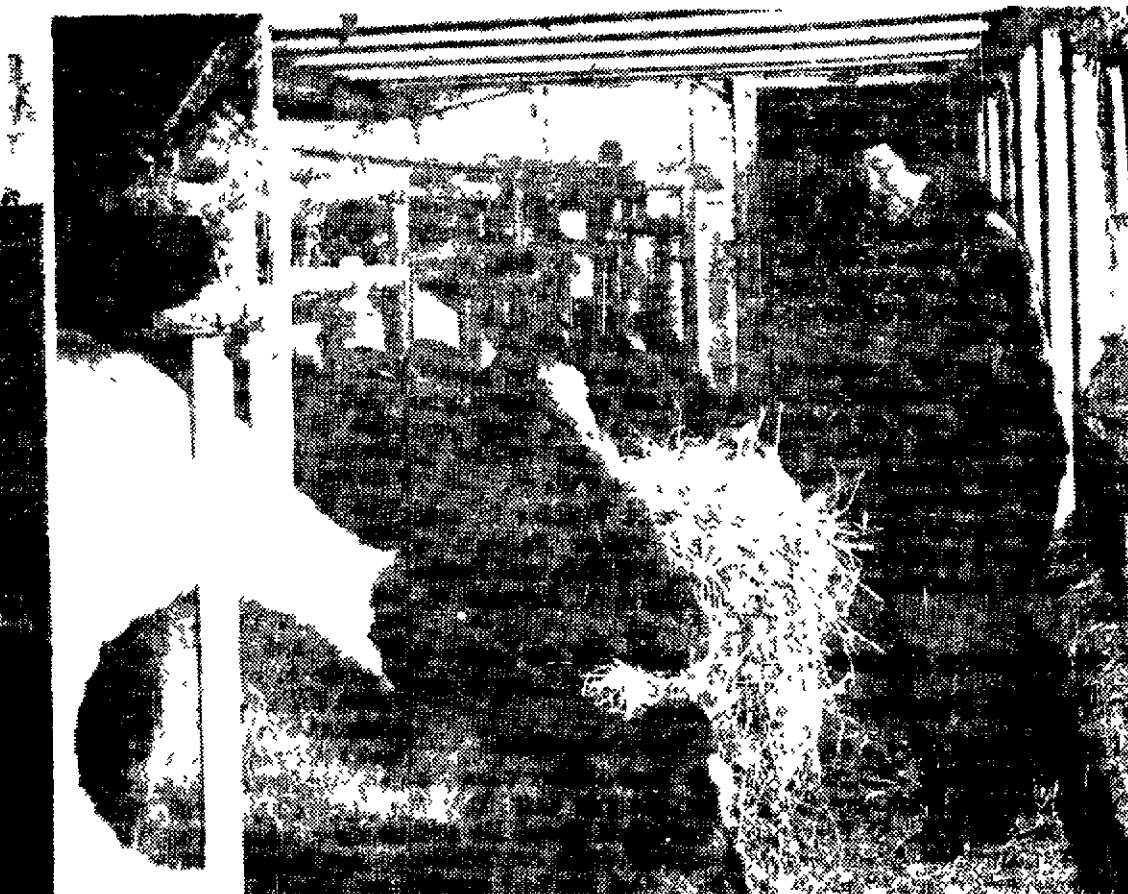

He has used it since he started farming and "You could give me $1,000 and you couldn't get that as long as I am farming," he said.

Mrs. Robbert helps with the farm work. "She works just as hard as I do and harder," he said, noting his wife wanted the farm more than he did.

He said after 21 years on the farm "I like it very well... the only thing I don't like about it is that I want to take off and go fishing and then I have to have somebody do my milking."

Sparks Fly as Edwin Robbert, Star Route, Weyauwega, works in his West Bloomfield welding shop. Robbert has operated the shop, next to his 27-acre farm for 30 years. He says spring and fall are the busiest times of the year for his welding business. Often, he says, he does farm work at night and welding during the day. (Photos to the Post-Crescent by Andrew Mueller)

Four Holsteins are fed by Mrs. Erwin Robbert. The Holsteins are housed in a 16 by 52 foot barn moved onto a 27-acre plot by Robbert in 1948. Robbert operates both a farm and a welding shop.

Early Cutting Brings Quality Alfalfa Crops

BY DONALD J. TRIPP
Farm Management Agent
Winnebago County

OSHKOSH — It looks like we are heading for a bumper crop of alfalfa this year, if weather conditions are on our side. Haymaking time will soon be here. Farmers used to just cut in late June, but this is no longer done. When the alfalfa shows its first flower, it's time to cut regardless of the date. This cutting schedule will not only give a good yield but also quality. Cutting at first flower yields more pounds of protein and minerals and fewer tons of fiber per acre.

Alfalfa fertility programs are vital to add nutrients to the soil. Joe Binder, Pickett, is planning on topdressing his fields right after the first crop is removed.

to improve his alfalfa stand. This is an excellent time to do this very important management practice. Alfalfa removes large amounts of nutrients, especially potassium and if the soil nutrient levels are low we will not only have a poor yield but a weaker stand which may not survive a cold winter. When cropping heavy, then we must return to the soil those nutrients used by the crop. A four-ton alfalfa yield will remove the equivalent of 100 pounds per acre of 0-45-0 and 300 pounds per acre of 0-0-60. This amount should be returned to the soil each year, and again an up-to-date soil test will indicate just what is needed.

For the past several years a number of our farmers have been adding a special oil with AATREX (atrazine) for annual weed control in corn. This special oil increases the absorption of the herbicide through the leaves and generally increases the effectiveness of AATREX. This combination is applied as "postemergence", or when the weeds are about two inches. One of the disadvantages is the possible burning of corn leaves and temporary stunting. Injury usually happens when the corn is already under some type of stress prior to the treatment. There are other wetting agents on the market but if the weeds are more than two inches tall and are mostly grasses partially giant foxtail then the oil addition is usually superior to these other wetting agents. The addition of oils or wetting agents is of no value for improving the effectiveness of preplant or preemergence-applied AATREX.

Cash Farm Leases Show Increased Popularity

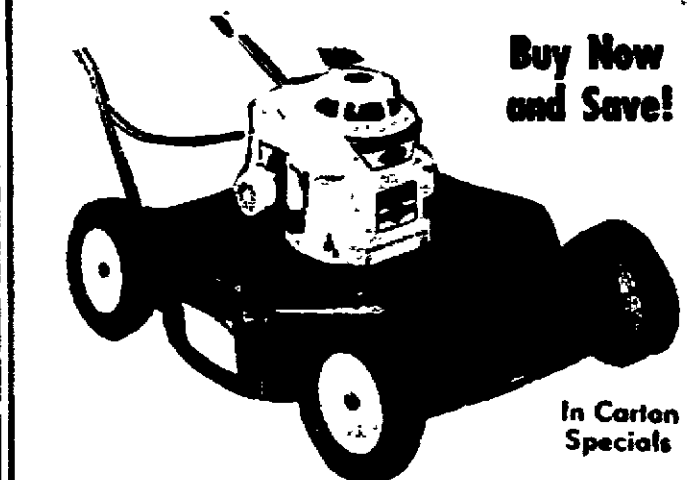

Cash farm leases are becoming more popular. The problem in the leases is in determining an equitable distribution of returns to the landlord and tenant. While several methods of determining cash rent are used, is the income approach.

Using this method you estimate the total value of production from the land and total production costs with the difference between the two considered as rent for the land. Cash rent also could be based on the landlord recovering his costs on the land such as taxes, interest on investment, plus interest, taxes depreciation, repairs and insurance on any improvement.

'Mini-Calf' Born Near DePere

DEPERE — Peter Vandevander, professor of veterinary science at the University of Wisconsin, said it is doubtful pneumonia could have stunted the calf.
The calf, born last Friday, weighs only 24 pounds and stands only 18 inches tall. It is fully formed and "very perky," according to Mrs. Vandevander.
The calf from a two-year-old Jersey, was sired by a Black Angus. The birth was not premature according to breeding records.
Pneumonia Developed
Vandevander said the Jersey developed pneumonia while pregnant saying the infection may have stunted the calf, however, Dr. Ted Kowalczyk, professor of veterinary science at the University of Wisconsin, said it is doubtful pneumonia could have stunted the calf.
It is possible that the animal is a midget, he said. Failure of the calf's pituitary gland to secrete growth hormone could cause the odd development.
Despite the small size he said the animal could grow to become a normal sized heifer.

NATO to Create Naval Task Force in Mediterranean Sea

BRUSSELS (AP) — Seeking to counter Soviet naval strength in the Mediterranean, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is reported planning to create a small naval task force for use in political emergencies where the U.S. 6th Fleet wouldn't be welcome.

The new international force will be known as NAVOCFORMED — Naval On Call Force Mediterranean. A source at NATO headquarters here said final plans for it will be approved Wednesday by NATO's 14-nation Defense Planning Committee. U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is to attend the meeting.

The United States, Britain, Italy, Greece and Turkey will furnish a minimum of six ships, usually destroyers and frigates, that will come together about twice a year for two weeks of maneuvers. Dutch, Norwegian, Portuguese and West German ships also may join the force from time to time, the source said.

The first maneuvers may take place in about six months. At said final plans for it will be approved Wednesday by NATO's 14-nation Defense Planning Committee. U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is to attend the meeting.

are mainly political in which a show of force might scare off the Russians.

Asked for an example, the source outlined this possibility: Suppose the Soviet Union were putting pressure on Yugoslavia, as it put pressure on Czechoslovakia before the invasion last August. NATO might want to give some support to Yugoslav independence.

Yugoslavia's Communist government would probably not welcome direct U.S. backing—it might do more harm than good. But a demonstration by a NATO naval force at the entrance to the Adriatic would be a warning that Moscow could read easily.

The Soviets also seem to have put their ships in the Mediterranean largely for political purposes. The U.S. 6th Fleet and the Italian navy are much stronger than the fleet that the Russians maintain there.

But NATO strategists point out that without firing a shot, the Soviet ships swing a great deal of political weight. For example, the 1968 landing of U.S. troops in Lebanon probably would not be repeated now because of the danger of a clash with the Soviets.

Wife of Dr. Barnard Files Suit for Divorce

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Dr. left Wednesday for a two-month tour of Europe and North America. He is believed to be in Rome.

Barnard and his wife have been married for 21 years and have two children, a daughter 19 and a son 18. The daughter, Deirdre, is one of the world's top women water skiers.

Mrs. Barnard told the court her husband went abroad last March and told her that when he returned he would not come back to her.

She said they entered into consent agreement giving her custody of the children and her husband "reasonable access" to them.

Massive Retaliation

NAVOCFORMED is part of the NATO policy that has replaced the doctrine of massive retaliation against any Soviet aggression. It was first called a policy of flexible response, but some officials now prefer to call it "controlled and assured" response. It means that Soviet moves on the international chessboard are to be answered by moves adapted to their importance—not by "wargasm," as one official called it.

Some NATO governments are disappointed that NAVOCFORMED is to be an on-call force and not a standing force as the Atlantic has. But the U.S. government is reported to have decided that it could not take the necessary ships away from other commitments.

The basic idea of NAVOCFORMED was approved by the NATO defense ministers last January. Diplomats and naval officers have been working on details since

Appeals to John L. Lewis

Nader Raps UMW Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader charges the leadership of the United Mine Workers union is corralling the votes of hundreds of phony locals—"illegal," by the UMW's own Constitution—"to perpetuate itself into the future."

He says union President W. "Tony" Boyle has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on conventions, bands and souvenirs in "a saturation campaign of hero-worship and adulation" for himself while the union claims it can only afford one full-time safety man at its headquarters.

Nader, the consumer safety advocate who lately has been championing the nation's coal miners, detailed his latest charges against UMW leadership in a letter to the patriarch of coal miners and founder of the UMW, John L. Lewis.

Warns Lewis

At 89, the pugnacious Lewis is president emeritus now. He is also chairman of the board of the union's welfare and retirement fund. Nader in his letter warned Lewis Thursday that Boyle is trying to freeze him out, take over the job himself, and double his own salary in the process.

Nader, who a month ago accused Boyle and the UMW officers of "mismanagement, padded payrolls and nepotism of the most pristine variety," urged Lewis to resist attempts to replace him and repudiate "the deplorable and self-serving leadership of the UMW and their disgraceful policies or non-policies."

The Boyle administration, Nader wrote Lewis, has brought about "the gradual destruction of the union's strength and stature . . . In recent years, the union that you built has deteriorated into a state of sycophancy toward the coal operators on such crucial matters as health and safety."

Lewis, who seldom talks to the press, was unavailable for comment. A union spokesman also said there would be no UMW comment.

The brunt of Nader's accusations:

Bogus Locals

1. "The perpetuation of Mr. Boyle and his colleagues in office is secured by the use of at least 550 bogus locals (not having the 10 active miners minimally required by the UMW constitution), controlled by pensioned, retired miners whose impoverished state is exploited in the direction of automatic voting for the present leadership."

2. "Over a million dollars was spent at the 1964 convention to insure certain changes in the union constitution that would serve to perpetuate the incumbent leadership and secure a $50,000-a-year pension" for Boyle.

3. Boyle "has encouraged and demanded a saturation campaign of hero-worship and adulation that is characterized by an intensity comparable only to

Proxmire Rejects Classified Reply

Senator Wants to Disclose Information on Expensive Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire has returned unopened the Pentagon's classified reply to his critical questions about a proposed new manned bomber because the secret stamp meant he could not use the information publicly.

Proxmire, D-Wis., a sharp critic of Pentagon spending, posed the questions April 7 to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird as part of a campaign to curb military spending.

Among them: "Is this plane really necessary?"

It took nearly five weeks for the reply to arrive, and less than an hour for Proxmire to reject it without opening it.

Howard E. Shulman, administrative assistant to Proxmire, said a military messenger delivered the reply May 12. It was in two envelopes, the inner one stamped "Secret."

Classified Material

When Proxmire saw that the Pentagon was asked to send a messenger and retrieve the classified material.

Shulman then called Laird's office to say the senator wanted an unclassified version of the response, one that can be used in public.

Proxmire's questions were prompted by a Laird request for $23 million during the next year to "permit the start of a full-scale engineering development" on a new manned bomber.

The Wisconsin senator said the Air Force wants to build 240 of the planes, called the Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft, at a cost of at least $50 million apiece.

Proxmire said he views the initial outlay as a commitment to go ahead with the whole program.

In the questions he put to Laird, Proxmire asked whether that view and those figures are correct.

"If this is so the public should know it and be fully aware of the consequences," Proxmire wrote.

He also asked Laird whether United States development of such a plane would intensify the arms race, and why such a weapon is necessary in an age of missiles.

Proxmire said he made clear he wanted to use the information publicly.

The Wisconsin senator announced Thursday he plans a series of hearings early in June by his subcommittee on economy in government into military spending and national priorities.

"If the United States is to respond meaningfully to meet our desperate domestic needs," he said, "the new weapons systems programs which the Pentagon has waiting in the wings must come under the careful scrutiny of the Congress and civilians in the executive branch."

Plane Believed Downed in State

MANITOWOC (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol and the Coast Guard said they would concentrate search efforts today in the area of the Door Peninsula for a Michigan airplane which vanished Wednesday on a flight to Manitowoc.

The plane was believed carrying four persons, all from Lansing, Mich.

The CAP in Hales Corners said a search by nine CAP planes and three Coast Guard planes was suspended late Thursday by darkness without having located a trace of the craft.

The plane's flight plan indicated a trip from Marquette, Mich., to Manitowoc, Ludington, Mich., and Lansing.

Officials said Thursday's search had included a routine check as far south along the Lake Michigan shore as the Illinois-Wisconsin border.

Warns Lewis

At 89, the pugnacious Lewis is president emeritus now. He is also chairman of the board of the union's welfare and retirement fund. Nader in his letter warned Lewis Thursday that Boyle is trying to freeze him out, take over the job himself, and double his own salary in the process.

Nader, who a month ago accused Boyle and the UMW officers of "mismanagement, padded payrolls and nepotism of the most pristine variety," urged Lewis to resist attempts to replace him and repudiate "the deplorable and self-serving leadership of the UMW and their disgraceful policies or non-policies."

The Boyle administration, Nader wrote Lewis, has brought about "the gradual destruction of the union's strength and stature . . . In recent years, the union that you built has deteriorated into a state of sycophancy toward the coal operators on such crucial matters as health and safety."

Lewis, who seldom talks to the press, was unavailable for comment. A union spokesman also said there would be no UMW comment.

The brunt of Nader's accusations:

Bogus Locals

1. "The perpetuation of Mr. Boyle and his colleagues in office is secured by the use of at least 550 bogus locals (not having the 10 active miners minimally required by the UMW constitution), controlled by pensioned, retired miners whose impoverished state is exploited in the direction of automatic voting for the present leadership."

2. "Over a million dollars was spent at the 1964 convention to insure certain changes in the union constitution that would serve to perpetuate the incumbent leadership and secure a $50,000-a-year pension" for Boyle.

3. Boyle "has encouraged and demanded a saturation campaign of hero-worship and adulation that is characterized by an intensity comparable only to ernment holds down prices on basic products like wheat and corn. This means limited earnings for the growers while the general cost of living keeps climbing. Most of the farm land in this Arizona-sized country is privately owned but much of it is in plots too small to operate profitably in today's changing times.

Youthful Discontent

There is discontent too among the youth, a sharpening of the human conflict between the "with-it" young and the old-style old.

After years of "crony control"—political and economic posts in the hands of Tito's aging war-time pals from the partisan movement of World War II—a genuine trend toward the more youthful is under way.

Tito, nearly 77, recently replaced the 35-member executive committee of the Communist Party with a new Politburo whose 14 members have an average age of 48—remarkably young by past standards.

The party, long a privileged group with membership closely restricted, has decided to bring in several thousand young members.

In the economy the stress on quality and competition has put a premium on technocrats and young executives who have the training and energy to produce.

A magazine cartoon shows a bald, pot-bellied party functionary sitting up in bed. As he gazes out the window at his factory, he rests a gnarled, uneasy hand on the hip of a naked young lovely beside him and muses sadly: "They're demanding I give up my place to younger men."

Job Competition

So they are. But the young are impatient. Students pouring out of the universities want good jobs. They want them now, and in general want them in cities where job competition is already fierce.

Better immediate job prospects were a major demand of Belgrade University students who rioted last year. Tito calmed the situation by promising something would be done.

In this country it is always Tito. And this is the biggest worry of all hanging over Yugoslavia. For what will happen after Tito goes?

Will there be a furious power struggle? Will Moscow, held at bay for more than 20 years by Tito, try to seek control through a successor who can be turned into a stooge? Will the old national, linguistic and religious enmities explode when he departs the scene?

Three years ago Tito struck at the hard-liners around him and purged Alexander Rankovic, forcing into retirement the man who had been generally viewed as Tito's heir. For more than 20 years Rankovic had run the secret police and represented the rough methods of the old days. His ouster brought a profound change.

"We lived through some bad years," says a Belgrade housewife. "But thank God it's all different now. Nobody is worried about the secret police any more. They're still there, of course. But nobody thinks about them. Ever since Rankovic was kicked out when the doorbell rings at night you know it's a friend."

Tito apparently wants no return to the atmosphere of the past. With no obvious heir on the scene, he seems to be counting on some form of collective leadership to succeed him, with power divided among a premier, a party leader and Politburo members who represent the six federal republics and two autonomous provinces.

The optimistic view is that such a system would work in accordance with Tito's ideals and that Tito, after death, "will rule from the grave."

Los Angeles Expected To Return Mayor Yorty

Tom Bradley, Negro Councilman, His Opponent in Run-Off Election Tuesday

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
LOS ANGELES — The white majority of Los Angeles, though increasingly apprehensive about having a black man as mayor, Oliver Quayle polling organization is so sick of Sam Yorty it is likely to hesitantly — and perhaps narrowly — elect Negro

City Councilman Tom Bradley Tuesday, May 27. That is the clear conclusion from interviews we conducted here in cooperation with the Oliver Quayle polling organization. However, the trend is in favor of Mayor Yorty, partly because of his hard-line campaign fanning racial fear. In 51 interviews with white voters largely in middle-income and lower middle-income neighborhoods of the San Fernando Valley selected by Mrs. Beryl Winn, Quayle's expert supervisor in California, these were the results. 23 for Bradley, 22 for Yorty, 6 undecided. That represents a substantial gain for Yorty, who was favored by only 33 per cent of these voters in the April 1 first-round mayoral election. Moreover, Yorty stands to get most of the undecided in our survey and perhaps some shaky Bradley voters. 32 of 32 for Bradley. But Yorty will have to do much better than that in potential backlash areas such as the San Fernando Valley to win next Tuesday. The reason: a solid phalanx of black votes (around 17 per cent of the electorate) As a test, we interviewed in the Watts ghetto and found a startling 32 out of 32 for Bradley.

To overcome this bloc vote, Yorty needs white voters such as one young insurance agent who voted for Bradley April 1 because Yorty was "stuffed on the job" but now has second thoughts. "More and more stuff about Bradley keeps coming out now," he told us. "I didn't realize at first how much he was against the police department." The result: he is today undecided, leaning toward Yorty. A similar case is a retired municipal employee who was appalled at a third Yorty term, then voted for TV newsman Baxter Ward in the first-round election, and now is disgusted by Yorty's red-baiting. Nevertheless, he is today undecided and leaning to Yorty because "I'm just afraid of these black militants controlling Bradley." He paused, grinned, then added: "Maybe Yorty got to me a little bit."

Anybody But So far, however, such worries about Bradley seem insufficient to convert enough first-round Bradley voters. "Frankly," a middle-aged lawyer told us, "in a city of this size, I think we could have found a more capable man than Bradley." Still, after having voted for Yorty in 1965, he wants a change so badly he would vote for anybody against Yorty. Thus, the only conclusion is that any presentable candidate could beat Yorty and a white opponent likely would have an easier time than Bradley. Indeed, the old popularity of the jaunty, maverick seems gone. Of the white voters interviewed, only 45 per cent gave Yorty a favorable rating as mayor and more than half characterized him as a big-mouth who gets nothing done. Apart from erosion of popularity in inevitable after two terms, Yorty's incessant globe-trotting and pontificating on international affairs explain his decline. "He travels around when he ought to be worrying about Los Angeles," said the wife of a retired auto worker. She voted for Yorty twice before but won't this time. Our interviews also revealed some public unease over Yorty's hard-line attacks against Bradley, particularly in contrast to Bradley's cool, detached manner. A young draftsman for Yorty on April 1 told us he was switching to Bradley because of "Yorty's racial smears." Furthermore, only 8 of the 51 voters take seriously Yorty's charges that Bradley's election would trigger a mass resignation of policemen. But "racial smears" constitute the mayor's main hope for reelection. A young credit manager admitted that "from what I've heard, Bradley is very good," but added he "won't vote for any Negro." Though exceptionally frank, he symbolizes Negrophobia usual well hidden. A surprisingly high 16 out of 51 white voters conceded it would make a difference to them if a Negro were mayor — an unfavorable difference in most cases. It is that vein Sam Yorty is mining this final campaign week to overcome the fact that we has worn out his welcome with the voters of Los Angeles.

Supplier, Union Conferees Meet With Mediator

Another Session Set as Nine-Month Strike Continues

There was some movement at the bargaining table but not enough to make any difference Tuesday in the status of the nine-month strike against the Fox Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association.

Negotiating teams for the association and Teamsters Local 563 of Appleton met for four hours during the afternoon with mediator Donald Lee, Madison, of the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC).

Another mediation session, agreed to by both sides, will be held at the Conway Motor Inn on June 2.

Revised Offer

The association, through Attorney Joseph Meli, Madison, reportedly made a revised offer on wages but it was deemed inadequate by the Local 563 bargaining committee.

And while the mediation session was under way, there were these developments:

— Representatives of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) were in the city taking depositions from witnesses who will appear in Federal Court at Milwaukee Friday in a major legal confrontation between labor and management.

Contractor Replaced

— Edward Kraemer and Sons, Plainfield, one of the main subcontractors on the U.S. 41-W. College Avenue overpass project, was replaced by a non-union firm. The prime contractor is Courtney and Plummer, Neenah, one of the strikebound firms.

— The Teamsters and Operating Engineers Local 139 announced they would continue picketing jobsites where association members are performing work.

— It was announced that contract talks will be resumed the last week in May between the Teamsters and Fox Valley Contractors Association, the latter having no connection with the struck association.

Another Hearing

— Another unfair labor practice hearing to air suppliers' association charges against the Teamsters was scheduled here for May 27.

The federal court action has major significance because it involves alleged secondary picketing of strikebound firms that continue to operate.

Federal Court Judge Myron Gordon will preside over the trial, which will begin at Milwaukee Friday at 9:30 a.m.

The NLRB, acting on behalf of the association, will seek to get an order restraining the Teamsters and Operating Engineers from picketing the U.S. 41 project, which has practically been at a standstill and is far behind schedule.

Plans Miss Deadline

Interceptor Sewer Project Faces Delay at New London

NEW LONDON — Plans for the northside interceptor sewer will not be ready in time for a scheduled June 6 deadline, Ray Pelishek, public works director, reported Tuesday to the city council.

Extension of sanitary sewers is contemplated to the area north of the Green Bay and Western Railway along U. S. 45 to Barn-O-Matic. The project is to be completed prior to 1971 when U. S. 45 and State 54 is improved.

Discussion was held earlier by the council about delaying the sewer project until later this year or scheduling it for a later date.

Pelishek said plans for the sewer will still be drawn by the city's consulting engineer and would not be finished at the original deadline.

Project Recommendations

The board of public works recommended that the main street improvement in 1971 be done at one time, but separate contracts be awarded by the state highway commission and the city.

A problem would arise with set backs and grades if the state were to do both the street repaving and sidewalk and curb joint project.

Highway commission representatives informed the council that one solution was to have one set of plans drawn and then have the city bid the work consisting of sidewalk replacement and curbing, and the state bid the street improvement.

Mayor S. W. Krostue said a decision on the recommendation would not be made until the June 3 meeting, because this was the date set previously for the council to make its final ruling.

Street Resurfacing

Pelishek said street resurfacing would be a comprehensive project involving not only repaving the sidewalks, but a good deal of underground work, fixing of intersections and adjusting of grades.

Only a three to four day shut down of traffic is expected in the main business area, while traffic will be impeded somewhat during the various phases of the program.

Pelishek is to have cost estimates on the entire project for the June 3 meeting.

New London Youth to Attend Naval Academy

Poppy was a representative at Badger Boys' State, a member of the National Honor Society, student council, and a member of the high school wrestling team. This past season he was the Mid-Eastern Conference 154-pound champion.

Hospital Gets $1,500 Pledge

CLINTONVILLE — A pledge for a $1,500 donation to its building program was acknowledged Monday night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Clintonville Community hospital.

Dr. W. F. Kennedy, Neenah, stated in a letter to Rod Platte, administrator, that he would like to pledge a $1,500 donation to the building program, to be paid over a three year period, and he enclosed his check for $500 as the first installment.

Dr. Kennedy expressed his appreciation for the many kindnesses extended to him at the hospital. He also stated that he would like to express his confidence in the board of directors in initiating this building program and pledged his continuing support and services to the hospital.

$2 Million Project

The hospital project amounts to $2,161,000.

Last week Congressman David Obey announced the approval of a $400,000 Health, Education and Welfare grant under the Hill-Burton act to the hospital for fiscal 1968. The total grant will amount to 40 per cent of the project cost, or eligible costs as the case may be, and it is the understanding

Sheltered Workshop's Objectives, Activities Described in Hilbert

HILBERT — William Schroeder of the Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop Inc., discussed the program being offered to handicapped persons and showed slides during a recent meeting of the Kiwanis Club here.

Schroeder explained that the workshop is provided to give work to handicapped persons so they can experience richer and fuller lives. During the past 10 years, he said, 411 persons have been employed at the workshop and 92 were placed in Fox Valley industries.

Much of the equipment and assistance has been contributed by local industries.

'Racing With the Moon, High Above the Midnight Blue'

Tracey Cernan, 6-Year-Old daughter of Astronaut and Mrs. Gene Cernan, is enthused over space equipment and wearing apparel and finds a motorcycle helmet the nearest thing to a space helmet. She tries it for size while at play Tuesday at the Cernan home near the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex. (AP Wirephoto)

The moon in all its splendor —
Shine on, shine on harvest moon —
That old devil moon —
Racing with the moon —

These lines from popular tunes of the twentieth century were recalled as pictures of the moon — all in living color — were transmitted to earth via television cameras aboard Apollo 10.

The appeal of the beautiful light that beams brightly on a clear night vanished with the close-up view. The brownish color was not especially romantic; it became apparent that the subject of the songs was nothing like we had envisioned it at least on the dark side of the moon where light is provided by earth shine.

As Apollo continues its exciting flight, the families of the three astronauts busied themselves with everyday tasks — school — laundry — playing in the outdoors.

Here in the Fox Cities, the busy May activities continue at a fevered pitch. In just two more weeks, most children in the area will be out of school for summer holidays. Swimming, playing baseball, taking vacation trips will be the order of their days and family living will become more carefree.

The last general meeting of the season for members of St. Elizabeth Hospital Auxiliary was Monday afternoon at the hospital. The women heard committee reports and watched as checks were presented to auxiliary president, Mrs. Clifford Vincent, by the bridge and sheephead chairmen.

Speaker was Miss Margaret Carroll, head technologist at St. Elizabeth, who discussed the growth and future plans of the School of Technology, which the auxiliary has endorsed and supported.

At the annual banquet of the Catholic Daughters of America Monday evening at St. Mary School Hall, members elected officers and presented their annual scholarship to Kathy Lorenz. Speakers at the program were Sister Hilda and Sister Susan of St. Anthony School, Neopit, who discussed the Indian school at which they teach.

Patricia Veal, Leader of the United Nurses Association headed a mass march of nurses at the Royal College of Nursing in London Thursday. The broom she carries was used because the nurses say, "Authorities have been sweeping things under the carpet for so long." Main complaint is low pay. (AP Wirephoto)

ed a check to Mrs. Clifford Vincent, auxiliary president. Mrs. Bellin and Mrs. Kling were this season's bridge and sheephead chairmen. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Convention of Voters League To be at Racine

The forty-first convention of the League of Women Voters of Wisconsin will be May 23 and 24 at Racine Motor Inn, Racine. Delegates attending from Appleton are Mrs. Edwin Olson, Mrs. Mojmir Povolny, Mrs. Bertrand Goldgar, Mrs. Jerold Winzenz, Mrs. Robert Rosenberg, Mrs. Hugh Corbett, Mrs. Charles Logsdon, Mrs. Peter Fritzell and Sister De Sales Bade. Also attending will be the two state board members, Mrs. Arch Hoffman and Mrs. James Ming.

Local league representatives will be electing state officers, adopting a program for the next two years and celebrating 50 years of league activity in political education.

Mrs. Hoffman has been nominated for a two-year term as director on the state board.

The new study item recommended for the program by the board of directors of the Wisconsin league is "Health and Social Services: A study of problems and solutions in Wisconsin."

Highlighting the convention theme, "We've Come a Long Way, Baby," and emphasizing that "we still have a long way to go," will be the address Friday evening by Mrs. Bruce B. Benson, president of the League of Women Voters of the United States.

Plans Completed For '34-35 Reunion At Kimberly High

KIMBERLY — Plans are underway for the 1934-35 graduating classes of Kimberly High School reunion June 7 at the Lox Club.

The classes combined for the reunion because of the small size of each group. The program will include dinner, entertainment and dancing. Persons planning to attend should send partial or full remittance to Mrs. Wilbur Courchane by May 31 to make reservations.

Other committee members are Mrs. Jack Staley, Mrs. Wilbert Strick, Norbert Gossens and Elmer Vander Velden.

Rotate Draperies

A spring day is always a beautiful sight... yet the ultraviolet rays of the sun can fade your favorite draperies. Spring is an excellent time to rotate your draperies after a professional cleaning. Rotation minimizes the sun's effect.

It was a guest day luncheon at Butte des Morts Golf Club Tuesday for members of the Ladies Lions Auxiliary. Talking with master of ceremonies, Robert Roemer, at right, are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hartjes, Mr. and Mrs. John Gall and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Muck. # Women Operators in Crime Inevitable

By ARLEEN ABRAHAM
NEW YORK (AP) — Feminists who applaud the end of every previously men-only barrier nevertheless were probably dismayed at the demise earlier this year of one all-male bastion: the FBI's Ten Most Wanted list.

Yet as Edith deRham, the author of "How Could She Do That: A Study of the Female Criminal," explains, "Since women have begun to fight for and gain equal status with men it was only a question of when — not whether — a woman would make the Ten Most Wanted list."

She adds that with increasing emancipation it's inevitable that women branch out — and not just as accomplices or lookouts — into crimes long considered the rightful domain of men — armed robbery, perhaps even as hired guns; crimes far removed from the stereotyped notion of the soft, nonviolent, passive female.

But women who choose to run afoul of the law may have more to lose than to gain from the feminist revolt.

Sympathy Lost With Femininity

"Once we strip away the feminine mystique, we also attack the notion that woman is a repository of most of the admirable human qualities. If she does wrong, so goes the old notion, she has been led astray by the more dominant, more innately violent male, and as all the world knows, a woman will do anything for love," continues Miss deRham.

In part, the feminine mystique explains why women criminals have been able to get away with more than men. Even if they are caught, she notes, "they usually receive more sympathetic treatment — unless they're unfortunate enough to be both beautiful and at the mercy of an all woman jury. Everyone assumes someone — a man or something, drugs — has gotten them into it. This is usually true: a woman is often brought into crime as an accomplice. But with complete equality we can expect to find more and more women going into hard crime as a means to an end — not connected with men or romance."

The new feminism and its effects on those in another level of society, the upper-class college educated woman, was the subject of Miss deRham's first book, "The Love Fraud." "After studying the upper classes I was curious to discover the problems involved among the less fortunate elements of society," says the Vassar graduate who majored in drama, not sociology.

From All Classes

One of her first findings was that women criminals were not by and large restricted to the less fortunate elements of society. "In the cases I selected as being representative, one is a middle-class revolutionary and another is a rich society girl who shoots her lover when he tries to abandon her."

"However, for the most part, women criminals — at least those who have been caught and have become statistics — do tend to come from the lower classes and suffer a history of deprivation, a lack of being properly cared for. As the sociologists Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck discovered, many come from abnormally large families where the mothers are not capable of caring for the children." But other generalizations, she claims, are hard to come by. Logically, due to their limited physical strength, women avoid exposing themselves to strangers and to physical dangers. Few muggers are women. And her studies have indicated that women tend to choose as their victims people who trust them... a family member, an employer who delegates too much responsibility.

Women Differ in Technique

"What husband expects his wife to slip him some arsenic while she is preparing his supper?" asks the New York resident. And, she adds, no one will ever know how many dying patients were helped along by a dutiful, devoted nurse.

The fact is, sums up Miss deRham, that women have always committed all the crimes that men commit, except for rape, which by definition is a physical impossibility.

"The principal difference between the sexes is not in the crimes they commit but in the manner in which they commit them and in the nature of their victims."

Now as women become more and more equal with men it is inevitable that these distinctions too shall blur.

Mafia Last Stronghold

However, she doubts very much whether women will ever break through that last stronghold of organized crime — the Mafia. Although girls have been gang leaders — witness the 19-year-old mother who confessed to leading a group of holdup specialists who robbed according to her plans while she stayed safely behind with her baby — they were independent operators.

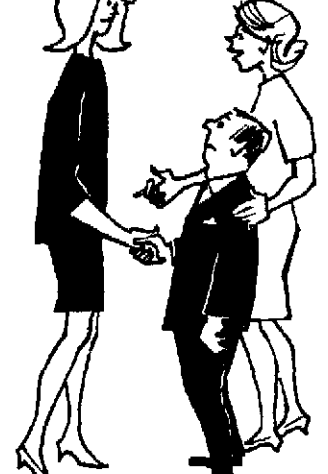

"A woman's not going to get into a position of authority in the Mafia — not where she can call the shots. Their concept of women is still mid-Moslem."

The classification of two acts peculiar to women — prostitution and abortion — as crimes is something else that Miss deRham feels belongs in the Dark Ages. In private life, the wife of investment banker Richard Coulson and the mother of three children, ages 9, 5½, 3, she is actively involved in efforts to repeal present abortion laws.

Plastic Cuts Cost of Underground Sprinklers

BY EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Inexpensive plastic could be the reason your neighbor's grass is greener, if he has an automatic underground sprinkler system.

When subterranean lawn sprinkling systems were introduced about 50 years ago, the cost of brass and copper pipe utilized limited sales to golf courses, institutions and the wealthy.

Plastic has cut the cost and maintenance. And modern systems have taken the guesswork out of watering lawns.

Say you are the average homeowner. You spend more time watering your lawn than doing other chores. Consider that you mow your grass weekly and fertilize your lawn once or twice a season. But you may moisten your lawn three times a week to provide good growing conditions.

Timer Works by Itself

Lawn expert Dr. James Watson (Moist O'Matic by Toro) says controlled watering is one of the most important considerations in lawn management. Too much water too often can cause shallow root systems and invite invasion by weeds. Insufficient water is bad. Proper and consistent moisture is the answer.

Underground watering systems place the right amount of water in the right place at the right time. The timing mechanism is automatic and can be set to operate early in the morning, when water pressure is highest and water loss from evaporation and wind is lowest. They may be clocked to work while you are asleep, on vacation or playing golf.

Specialized sprinkler heads can adapt present systems to areas of widely varying shape and size. They can be programmed to deliver water at the rate of "gentle rain," only as fast as the soil can absorb it.

Winter is no problem. Dr. Watson says the new underground sprinkler systems are freeze-proof and can be winterized in a jiffy.

Budget-minded homeowners can add to their system through a "building block" concept without disturbing sections in the ground.

Acclimatize Plants

Before moving your houseplants outside, let them become accustomed to cooler temperatures by setting them on sheltered porches for a while. Because they will grow faster outdoors, repot plants into larger clay containers before making the shift.

South then cashed his own igh trump, hoping that both opponents would follow suit. If o, he could claim the rest of ie tricks.

Since East still had a trump, 'Alelio had to get to dummy to raw the last trump. He cashed ie ace of clubs and ruffed a ub in dummy, but East had scarded a club on the fourth ound of spades and was there- re able to overruff dummy's own one.

Sad Hand

It was a very sad hand, and if u want to reach for the crying wel, go right ahead. But don't y too hard, because Italy J covered from this blow and n the world championship ayway.

D'Alelio should have made his, Sl. and slam by proper play of e hearts and spades. He ould have begun by taking al ee high hearts, discarding th of the low spades from his nd. He could then ruff dum- /s three low spades without vting to cash the ace of spades st.

East would follow suit to e rounds of spades without ifting a chance to discard a lb, and South would eventual- ruff a club safely in dummy order to draw East's last mp. Only then, at the 13th ck, would it be correct to sh the ace of spades.

Son's Jokes Sound Familiar

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Our youngest child has been trying to tell a joke at the dinner table for the past three years. The same one.

I feel sorry for the kid. To be on the tail end of a family means anything you come up with has either been told or isn't worth telling. We can always tell when his favorite magazine comes in the mail

He will rush into the kitchen and sav, "Why did it take three boy scouts to help a little old lady across the street?" and one of the older ones will shout, "Because she didn't want to go, Cluck!"

Personally I wish he'd take the magazine, crumple it and

"When you kids start eating what's on your plate you can start eating snacks. No wonder you're sick all the time ..."

In the months to follow, we were to hear the preamble to the joke dozens of times ... always with interruptions, never completed.

Finally, one day last week I said, "Tell me your joke about the man with the mousetrap and the cheese for bait."

"Well," he said perching himself on the stool, "he found out he didn't have any cheese for bait so he cut out a picture from a magazine of a piece of cheese. When he awoke the next morning, know what he found in his trap? A picture of a mouse."

"Tell it at dinner," I urged. Under protest, the family sat rigid and listened to the story without interruption. By the time he got to his punch line he was hysterical. His eyes were shining with excitement and I thought he was going to explode as he built for his big finish "And do you know what he found in his trap?" he asked. "A mouse!"

No one said a word. I wonder whether Henry Youngman got started this way.

Your Problems

He's Annoyed When Their Kids Entertain

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Some new friends invited us over for an evening of bridge. When we arrived at 7:30 p.m. we were asked if we'd like to hear their 12-year-old play her piano recital piece. Of course we politely said "yes." The "piece" turned out to be three pieces, and my husband was visibly annoyed.

After the piano recital we were told that the younger boy wanted to do something to entertain us, also. So we sat and listened to him name the fifty states, "Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California ... ." Then came the Gettysburg address — "Four score and seven years ago ... ." Next he named all the cabinet members and their posts — "Mr. William Rogers, secretary of state; Mr. Melvin Laird, secretary of defense; Mr. David Kennedy, secretary of the treasury ... ."

Then the 6-year-old came in wearing toe slippers and a fairy costume. Her mother played the piano while she danced for what seemed like forever.

At 8:30 p.m. they finally brought out the cards. By that time my husband was so out-of-sorts he played a terrible game, and his disposition was foul. When we got home he told me never to accept another invitation from those people. He ordered me not to ask them to our place ever again. I like the woman very much, Ann. The weird part is I don't get anything out of it. And it seems to be getting worse. I got a bigger thrill out of being kissed

Social Workers Harangued

Alinsky Plugs for Minimum Income

BY TOM TORINUS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — Saul Alinsky, famous and controversial champion of the poor, warned state welfare workers here Thursday that a guaranteed annual income will force them out of their jobs.

Alinsky continued a series of assaults which have besieged 1,200 members of the Wisconsin Public Welfare Association (WPWA) at their annual convention.

In other confrontations, a statewide group of welfare recipients and a splinter group of the WPWA challenged the welfare workers to change their outlook and ally themselves with the poor.

Guaranteed Income

Alinsky said a system like a guaranteed annual income or a negative income tax is inevitable, because the present welfare system cost too much to administer. He called the welfare workers "brokers," and predicted that the new welfare system would "cut out the brokerage fees."

The Welfare recipients group, which is holding a simultaneous meeting in Milwaukee and walked into the WPWA meeting, clapped and voiced its support as Alinsky espoused his well-known strategy of organizing the poor to win concessions from the establishment.

Poor Need Power

The Chicago sociologist said the poor must have power or the whole structure of our free society will collapse. The only way they can get power is through the "hard, dirty, tedious, monotonous job of organizing," he added.

But even if all of the poverty-stricken minority groups organized and formed a coalition, they could not by themselves accomplish substantial change, he said. To be effective, they must ally themselves with elements of the country's vast middle class.

"Seething Frustration"

Alinsky said the United States is the only country in the history of Western civilization in which a predominant middle class has emerged, and that class holds the key to power.

An alliance between the poor and the middle class can be formed around the issues of taxation and a mutual feeling of powerlessness. He saw in both classes "a seething frustration" and claimed that continued controversy is necessary to better their lot.

Alinsky has established two schools in the East to train organizers of both the poor and the middle class and plans to open more of the schools.

He told the social workers that they too should become organizers, shunning their allegiances with state and county welfare officials and to "go out on the street" with the poor.

After Alinsky's talk, a representative of about 35 recipients present rose to complain that the WPWA convention would cost state taxpayers about $125,000, money that could better be spent to help the poor. She said the recipients met at the same time as the WPWA "to point out to taxpayers that the taxes are not all being spent on the welfare recipients."

The welfare workers were charged with "aiding and abetting" the poor image of welfare clients, violating clients' rights by invading their privacy, and in general not treating clients like human beings.

Other objectives of the recipients' meeting are to organize resistance to cuts in welfare payments proposed by the legislature's joint finance committee and to teach recipients about their rights under welfare laws. After Alinsky's talk, the recipients took up a collection among

Catholic Pastors to Retire This Summer

Letter From Bishop Announces Changes in Clergy Appointments

GREEN BAY — Three pastors of Fox Cities Catholic parishes will retire this summer.

The information was released in letters sent out by the Rev. Alysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay, which is among those sent to priests with appointments changes.

The bishop has not made all appointments known, as yet, and appears the complete list of changes will not be released sometime next week.

Retiring in June will be the Rev. Martin Vosbeek, pastor of Holy Church, Little Chute; Rev. Joseph Kools, Holy Name of Jesus, Kimberly; and the Rev. Eugene Hotchkiss, now at St. Joseph Marquette, who will go to St. Mary.

Replacing them will be the Very Rev. Norbert Vande Loo, pastor at St. Joseph, Oconto, who will go to Little Chute; the Rev. Paul Hogen, St. Patrick, route 2, Lena, who will take over at Holy Name; and the Rev. Eugene Hotchkiss, now at St. Joseph Marquette, who will go to St. Mary.

Appleton Native

Father Vosbeek is a native of Appleton. Ordained in 1932 after completing St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee, he served as assistant in Kimberly and De Pere. He was the first full-time director of the Associated Diocesan Societies and in 1947 was named pastor at St. Mary, De Pere.

He was assigned to St. John in 1956 and under his direction the congregation built a high school, added two confessional chapels, rebuilt the convent and completed a new rectory.

From Holland

Father Kools is a native of Holland. Also a graduate of St. Francis, he was ordained in 1930. He was assistant at Green Bay, and West De Pere, Stevens Point and Little Chute and served as chaplain of the Civilian Conservation Corps Camps of the northern area.

In 1938 he was named pastor at Glenmore and in 1950 pastor to Freedom. He became pastor of St. Mary, De Pere, in 1955 and in 1957 went to Holy Name. Under his guidance the congregation enlarged the rectory, built a new convent and a new church seating 1,200 in 1962.

Msgr. Becker is a native of Manitowoc, a graduate of St. Francis and St. Paul Seminary, Minnesota. He was ordained in 1927 and served as assistant at Sacred Heart, Manitowoc; and St. Mary, Menasha, where he was named administrator in 1948. He was named pastor of the church in 1950 and was named domestic prelate by Pope John XXIII in 1962.

The death of Miller was the first fatality of the year in Oshkosh, Miller said. The last time last year was

GOP Group Comes to Aid Of Conradt

Answers Criticism That Legislator Is Ignoring Appleton Constituents

SPECIAL TO THE POST-CRESCENT

MADISON — The Wisconsin Assembly's GOP Information Office has come to the defense of Assemblyman Ervin Conradt (R-Shiocton), who has been singled out by the Alliance of Cities as the "leader of anti-city forces" in the legislature.

The information service statement was aimed at a statement by Appleton Mayor George Buckley who claimed, at last week's alliance meeting, that Conradt has 15,000 residents in Appleton and "is voting against them."

Conradt, the GOP Information Service says, has 30,000 residents in his Outagamie County 3rd Assembly District which are outside the city of Appleton.

Census Data

(Census figures show that the district, when it was created on the basis of the 1960 census, had 12,451 people in Appleton and 21,084 outside the city. On the basis of the information service, the 3rd District would have increased by 8,916 people since 1960. Buckley's figure of 15,000 for Appleton shows an increase in the city population of 2,549 since 1960. Current Fox Valley Council of Government figures place the Appleton figure at about 14,000.)

The information service points out Conradt's district includes the towns of Black Creek, Bovina, Center, Cicero, Dale, Deer Creek, Ellington, Grand Chute, Greenville, Hortonville, Liberty, Main and Maple Creek; the villages of Bear Creek, Black Creek, Hortonville and Shiocton; one ward in the city of New London, and Appleton 14th through 19th wards.

Conradt Replies

The release noted that William Beyer, former Mayor of Racine, recently charged that Conradt had not represented the interests of cities in the state legislature and, in fact, "had done great harm to the causes of urban areas." Mayor George Buckley of Appleton, it said, stated that Assemblyman Conradt had failed to vote for annexation reform laws and had not pushed for the passage of the Tarr Task Force report on local government organization and financing.

"I represent both the cities in my district and small communities," Assemblyman Conradt stated. "Spending most of my time in Madison, working for the people of my district, in committee meetings and debating the issues on the floor of the assembly, I believe I do represent the best interests of everyone."

"The Tarr Task Force report, as an example," Conradt concluded, "is a very complex recommendation and has not been before the legislature. When it is, the people of my area will be represented and my vote will be in favor of economy for both cities and my rural areas. I know the people in both areas cannot cope with further tax burdens, whether through the passage of the Tarr Task Force report or the state budget."

Getting Ready for the events for Memorial Day, which will begin with a parade at 9 a.m., is the planning committee. Plotting the route are, from left, Ken Loos, parade marshal; Mrs. James Schroeder and Mrs. Kenneth Lippold, committee members; and Gerald Arens, general chairman. In back is D. G. Otis, the other parade marshal. Arens, who has been chairman for the past 17 years, is serving his last year in that position. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Fiscal Board to Discuss Crowding In City Schools

KAUKAUNA — Edward Spierings, chairman of the fiscal control board of the Kaukauna district, has called a special meeting of the fiscal board and school board members for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the social studies rooms at the high school to discuss space problems.

The meeting is being called at the request of the board of education which is seeking five additional classrooms for the 1969-70 school year to meet increased enrollments. The district currently is renting seven classrooms from churches and private schools, but more are needed.

Starts at 9 a.m. Memorial Day Parade, Ceremony Announced

The route for the Memorial Day parade and the groups participating in it have been announced by the planning committee, headed by Gerald Arens, who is serving his final year in that position.

The parade route is east on College Avenue to Rankin Street, then north on Rankin to Pacific Street; east on Pacific to Riverside Cemetery to the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) plot. The parade will be from 9 to 11 a.m.

The parade lineup includes armed forces recruiters, parade marshalls and the staff, Appleton City Band, police and fire departments, Wisconsin National Guard, U. S. Naval and Army Reserves, Americans, the clergy, Boy and Girl Scout honor guard, Appleton Recreation Department, AHS-East band and drill team.

Other Marchers

Others are World One Baracks, VFW and the VFW Auxiliary, Catholic War Veterans and their auxiliary, Fox Valley All Women's Post and Auxiliary, American Legion and auxiliary, Fox Valley Lutheran High band, Lutheran Boy and Girl Pioneers, Salvation Army, Roosevelt School Pom Pom Girls; Toros Drum and Bugle Corps Diplomats, AHS-West band and girls drill team, and the fire department rescue squad.

The memorial day program will begin with a call to order by Ralph J. Sanders, program chairman; and the posting of colors by the National Guard.

Tom Sommers, a student at AHS-West, will lead the pledge of Allegiance; and Charles Lange, Xavier student, will give Logan's orders. The Rev. Robert D. Findlay, St. John UCC, will bring the invocation; John Menn AHS-East student, will recite the Gettysburg Address;

Flowers on Graves

Lloyd J. Berken, past commander of the American Legion, will bring the address. A trio from AHS - West, composed of Theresa Baldwin, Lynn Krueger and Ann Sosinski, will present the peace anthem while honor students from the junior high schools will scatter flowers on the graves.

During a number by the Appleton City Band, Carol Kettenhoven and Marilyn Bick, Xavier students, will place a memorial wreath on the cross. The Rev. Vern Root, of Wesleyan Methodist Church, will give the tribute to the dead.

A rifle salute by the firing squad of the National Guard, and taps by John Brouck of the Appleton City Band, will conclude the program.

Arens, who has been chairman of the activities for 17 years, will culminate that duty this year. His father was chairman of the Memorial Day program for 18 years before him.

Appleton 'Rich' in Comparison

Indians Very Proud of Humble Y's

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

YMCA worker David G. Lindstrom painted both a dismal and a promising human picture of the Dakota Sioux people on their reservations in South Dakota.

Lindstrom is a staff member of the North Central Area YMCA on detached duty among the Sioux Indians. He lives with his family in Sioux country, serving 12 Indian YMCA groups organized at present with seven more underway. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Appleton YMCA, Thursday night.

He called Appleton Y members "rich" with a "rich" sort of building and facilities, then proved his point with slides of the small frame buildings heated by stoves that serve as Y's for the Indians.

"They pinch pennies, they slave and they sacrifice for those buildings and they take great pride in them," he said. "You people will have to stretch some to match that," he told his listeners. "These people will travel hundreds of miles to go to YMCA meetings, often in an old, beat-up car that sometimes doesn't make the trip without breaking down. They will sit around

Lawrence Purchases Old National Guard Armory

Lawrence University has purchased the old National Guard armory building at 327 E. College Ave. for $48,000, it was learned today.

The university bid was highest of two submitted and was accepted by the Wisconsin Department of Military Affairs, Madison, and later approved by Gov. Warren Knowles.

"As soon as we get title, the armory will be razed immediately and the property will be moved except for supplies which business compatible with the university," Marwin Wrostad, treasurer and business manager at Lawrence, said.

"We're anxious to get this property and the one adjoining it (the old Presbyterian Church property) previously purchased by the school and adjoining the Bureaucracy, including that of the church, has fragmented the lives of these people so they have no leaders today. White man's education has changed the Indian way of life so much that even the educated Indian of today — who might be a leader — cannot understand reservation life nor can the reservation Indian understand the educated Indian.

"The old ways have been destroyed — the Indian's religion was very close to life, symbolizing everyday activities. In most cases, the religion brought in was difficult for Indians to understand — it had no relevancy to their lives.

"These people once had a language far more mature than the English he learns today, just as his monotheistic religion with its 'Great Spirit' —

The Saint Involved in Kidnaping

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channel 5 — The Saint is not only the best show of the evening; it is also, with the exception of the game shows, the only original program on the schedule. This one has a clever script about flesh peddlers, but not of the sex variety. These are German gangsters who kidnap a brilliant British scientist. Their ransom demands go neither to the man's family nor to the British government. They plan on taking their package of flesh, blood, bones, and most of all, grey matter, to Russia, where they will literally put him up for sale.

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — The High Chaparral has a tight little story about the dangers of doing good deeds. Buck and Billy Blue find a group of scared and starving Apache children in the desert. They had run off after an attack by a band of Pima braves. They bring the youngsters back to the ranch, and before long a band of Apaches is there to bring the children back.

6:30-7:30 Channel 2 — Michael Dunn, as little Dr. Miguelito Loveless, returns to The Wild Wild West, so you can tab this for fun. The evil little genius is on a kidnaping kick to set up a trial of his principal enemies.

6:30-7:30 Channel 11 — The Singers has much of the flavor of the old Bell Telephone Hour excursions into the personal and professional lives of different artists. The subjects here are two singers, Aretha Franklin and Gloria Loring, who are both beautiful and talented, but the similarities end there.

7:30-8 Channel 2 — Gomer and Carter go Hollywood on Gomer Pyle USMC when they travel to the tinseel factory to make a movie for the Marines. They are most impressed by a young beauty looking for her big town assumes the role of the heavy on The Guns of Will Sonnett. Will and Jeff ride into a small town to find a man hanging in effigy.

7:30-9 Channel 5 — The cast of "The Protector" is far smaller than the average on The Name of the Game, but it makes up in quality what it loses in quantity. Robert Young stars as an ultra-right wing multimillionaire who plans to solve the country's problems with his own privately-financed Army.

8:30-9 Channel 11 — A whole Europe to separate the two.

Control of Sewage Tanks Aim of Bill

State Measure Apparently Would Duplicate Outagamie Moves

Special to The Post-Crescent
MADISON — A bill calling for state control over sewage tank operations apparently would duplicate two moves Outagamie County took last year to combat the inadequate regulation.
The state bill debated Wednesday would authorize the state to issue $5 permits for installing septic and holding tanks and establish standards and enforcement. The county now charges a $12 fee.
W. R. Koenig, representing the State Department of Health and Social Services, contended Wednesday local authorities are inadequately trained for the job.
Outagamie officials hired Frank Charlesworth for the newly created post of coordinator of public services in March of 1968. His main task to date has been controlling installations of new septic and holding tanks.
The county moved a step further last winter and conducted representative of each township to work with Charlesworth in the program. Each township representative, usually the town building inspector, will become a septic tank inspector as soon as financial arrangements are made.
In other counties, most of the work also is done by the counties. However, Koenig contends the state is not trying to wrest control from the counties.
Surveillance Necessary
"This bill would protect our water supply by preventing contamination to surface waters," he said. "We are daily receiving requests from local zoning directors who are not trained in plumbing or are experts on soil," he added.
The State Board of Health and Social Services would adopt and carry out regulations under the proposed law.
We are not doing anything unusual," he asserted. "State surveillance is necessary."
Koenig told the committee funds raised from the permit fee would be used to hire seven new sanitarians for the state to employ for inspection of sewage systems.
Opposition to the proposal came from several counties.
Herbert Ripley, speaking for the Waukesha County Department of Health, said he would support a "meaningful permit system."
He added his feeling that a state program would force sewage system uniformity through-

LU Professor Writes Article on Spanish Novelist

A Lawrence University professor has authored an article exploring the relationship of art to the characters and scenes in the works of a 19th Century Spanish novelist.
Dr. John Alfieri, Marie Wollpert professor of Spanish and chairman of the Spanish department at Lawrence University, is the author of an article entitled "El arte pictórico en las novelas de Galdos", published in a recent issue of "Anales Galdosianos", an annual devoted exclusively to the 19th Century Spanish novelist Perez Galdos.
An authority on the works of Galdos, Dr. Alfieri plans to spend his forthcoming sabbatical leave in Madrid completing a monograph on the Spanish author's use of religious and secular iconographies in his novels. A review by Dr. Alfieri of a recently-published bibliography on Galdos will appear this year in "Books Abroad."

Jenkins Outduels Bill Singer; Cardinals Tally 5 Runs in 11th

By HAL BOCK

The Apollo 10 Astronauts are flying around the moon and their National League counterparts, the Houston Astros, have finally gotten off the launching pad.

The Astros spent the first three weeks of the season in their final countdown while the rest of baseball was blasting off.

They played 23 games, managed exactly four victories and seemed to be permanently grounded.

Then along came May and the Astros started their engines. It all began when Don Wilson pitched his no-hitter against Cincinnati on May 1 and, happily for Manager Harry Walker, it shows no signs of stopping.

Wilson won his fourth game Thursday night, beating Montreal 7-4 for Houston's fifth straight victory and 14th in 18 games this month.

St. Louis Wins in 11

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta bombed New York 15-3. St. Louis whipped San Francisco 8-3 in 11 innings. Ferguson Jenkins pitched a four-hitter and blanked Los Angeles 3-0, and Pittsburgh whipped San Diego 7-1.

Jimmy Wynn's ninth home run of the season gave Wilson a quick two-run lead against the Expos and then the Astros added three more in the second.

Joe Morgan, who singled home one of the second inning runs, doubled for two more in the seventh.

Wilson coasted with a 7-3 lead into the ninth but three Montreal hits including a homer by John Bateman knocked him out. Fred Gladding nailed down the victory.

It was the seventh straight loss for the Expos, who got three runs in the fourth on a pair of errors by Wilson and Doug Radar and a two-run single by Bob Bailey.

Atlanta collected 18 hits including homers by Hank Aaron, Felix Millan and Clete Boyer to wallop New York. Five Met pitchers absorbed the battering.

519th of Career

Aaron's two-run shot in the first inning was the 519th of his career, leaving him two short of Ted Williams and fifth place on the all-time list. Cleon Jones robbed him of another homer with a leaping catch later.

In the seventh, Aaron was lifted for a pinch hitter for the first time in his career as Manager Lum Harris took advantage of the big lead to rest the 35-year-old slugger.

Lou Brock broke a 2-2 tie with an 11th-inning homer and the Cardinals went on to score five more runs to beat the Giants.

St. Louis had rallied to tie the score with two out in the ninth when second baseman Ron Hunt booted Curt Flood's two-out grounder. Joe Torre and Tim McCarver followed with singles to bring Flood home.

Juan Marichal, who started for the Giants, was forced to leave the game after reinjuring a rib muscle in the sixth inning.

Jenkins outpitched Bill Singer to beat the Dodgers for his sixth victory. He struck out seven, increasing his National League leading total to 72.

Don Kessinger drove in two Chicago runs after Glenn Beckert's two-out grounder had hopped off second base for a run-scoring single that broke a scoreless tie in the sixth.

Roberto Clemente lashed two singles, a double and a homer, driving in three runs with his best game of the season and

4 Area Teams Compete

3 WISSA Track Meets Scheduled

Four Fox Cities parochial schools send teams to three different sites in hopes of gaining honors in the first WISSA state track meets Saturday.

Appleton Xavier is entered in the Class A test at Milwaukee, where it will be one of 13 schools participating. Milwaukee Messmer is the defending champion of the event, which will be held in the Milwaukee Marquette University Stadium.

Fox Valley Lutheran and Menasha St. Mary take reduced contingents to De Pere for the Class B meet at St. Norbert College. Wisconsin Rapids Assumption, the 1968 champion, is back to defend its crown in a field of 18 schools — including Fond du Lac St. Mary Springs, De Pere Penning and Manitowoc Roncalli.

Little Chute St. John will compete in the first Class C meet at University School in Milwaukee. The Dutchmen are joined by such Northeastern Wisconsin teams as Sacred Heart Seminary of Oneida and St. Gregory of St. Nazianz in a field totaling 17 schools.

All three of the meets begin at 10 a.m. with finals at 1:30 p.m.

Milwaukee Pius and LaCrosse Aquinas are labeled co-favorites in Class A. Among the stars entered are Pius pole vaulter Terry Hansen, who has cleared 12-6, and 440 man Van Rasmusen, who has turned in a 50.3-second clocking. Aquinas' Bob Petry has gone 6 feet, 5 1/2 inches in the high jump. Mike Lawless of Racine St. Catherine has a 4:13 mile to his credit.

Xavier scored nine points last year to place eighth. Discuss thrower Bill Pfefferle, who took first place in 1968 with a toss of 145 feet, 2 inches, has shown he will be difficult to dethrone.

In the recent Fox Valley Catholic Conference meet, the big senior flipped the platter 150-8.

Brad Graff, who has concentrated on baseball this spring, was a third-place finisher in the 100-yard dash in the 1968 state meet. He has taken part in a few track meets this year and may possibly compete in Milwaukee.

More key Xavier competitors could be Steve Hardy in the high hurdles, Ed Wenning in the high jump, and Jim Erchul in the shot put.

Oshkosh Lourdes and Manitowoc Roncalli, which ran 2-3 to Green Bay Premonite in the FVCC meet, along with Marshfield Columbus will be top contenders for the Class B crown.

Some of the best individual performances by entrants in the meet include a 4:27.8 mile by Roncalli's Greg Erickson, a 19.7-second clocking in the low hurdles by Reggie Johnson of St. John's Military Academy of Delafield, and :10.1 by Dick

'Awfully Difficult Chore,' Says Kramer of Decision

Jerry Makes Retirement Official

BY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY "It's an awfully difficult chore," Jerry Kramer said solemnly, "to sever the relationship I've had in Green Bay."

It was only minutes after the erstwhile "blocker of the year," speaking from Philadelphia by telephone, had formally announced his retirement from football in a conversation with Packer General Manager Coach Phil Bengtson.

"I made an official statement," he added, "but I don't think you can completely state your feelings about giving up something you love."

A major figure in Green Bay's surge to five National Football League titles in the seven years from 1961 through 1967, he had been a Packer for 11 seasons and all-pro selection in five of them.

"I want to wish Phil Bengtson and the Green Bay Packers a beautiful 1969 season," Kramer said in his formal announcement. "I hope I can spend a day in January next year watching the Packers play in the Super Bowl in New Orleans."

'Happy For Team'

"I'll be very jealous of the guy playing right guard, but I'll be happy for the team and happy for the entire city of Green Bay. I'm going to miss the game, my teammates and I'm going to miss the coaches."

His intentions had first become apparent Tuesday through an advertisement promoting his new book, a development which triggered Thursday's confirmation.

He described the work as "Jerry's inside look at the frustrating 1968 Green Bay season, his personal decision to give up the game he loves so much, his ventures in other fields . . ."

Bengtson corroborated the indication that the Packers had not attempted to influence

This Scene, Repeated frequently during the Vince Lombardi era in Green Bay, is only a memory now. Guard Jerry Kramer (64) announced his retirement Thursday. He and "Fuzzy" Thurston (63) conveyed Jim Taylor (31) on many a big gain in the Packers' recent past. Thurston and Taylor retired a year ago.

Della Defends Laurels

Kimberly, Two Rivers Expected to Battle For M-E Track Crown

KAUKAUNA — Clintonville's track wonder, Sherman Della, takes the spotlight along with Kimberly and Two Rivers in the Mid-Eastern Conference track meet Saturday.

Field events begin at 12:30 p.m., and the running events are slated to get underway at 1:30 p.m.

Della, who set the conference marks in the high hurdles, low hurdles and high jump in the 1968 meet, will likely be back to defend his titles in at least two of these events.

He is expected to continue his domination of the hurdles, where he has the current best time in the state in the highs (14.4 seconds) and third-best clocking in the lows (20.1).

Della may not enter the high jump, where a back injury has reduced his effectiveness this year. The owner of the state Class B high jump record of 6-3 has had difficulty going over the 6-0 mark this season.

Instead of the high jump, Della may enter the long jump where he has had an effort of 21-7 1/2 — the only M-E competitor who has gone over the 21-foot mark.

While Della's presence is a big attraction, the duel between Kimberly and Two Rivers for the championship should create even more interest in the meet.

The Papermakers and Raiders have been battling each other all year. Two Rivers won a dual meet between the two powers and also a triangular track wonder, Sherman Della, that involved Kimberly. But Wednesday night, the Papermakers took home the M-E Relays crown while TR finished as runnerup.

Some of the tops stars for Kimberly include Tom Vander Velden, runnerup in last year's 220; Kim Koehn, who won the 880 last year only to be disqualified; and Jeff Wildenberg, who is most likely to succeed Della as high jump king.

Vander Velden is the owner of the best time in the 220 this year with :22.1. The time is also the fastest in the state.

Vander Velden also is a valuable member of Kimberly's crack 880 relay team. Koehn is right on the 2:00 mark in the 880 relay, while New 880. Wildenberg has been around the 6-3 mark all year in the high jump and is also about in the mile relay.

threat in the hurdles, where his times of 15.9 in the highs and 21.4 in the lows rang second to Della.

Two Rivers standouts are Craig Strohm in the pole vault, Randy Ammerman in the discus, and Barry Dennis in the shot put. Ammerman is the best so far in his event with a toss of 143 feet.

Other peak efforts in the various events have been turned in by Menasha's Tom Scovronski and Kimberly's Dennis Jansen in the 100, where both have been around :10.3; Menasha's Dave Hoks (51.7) and New London's Pete Meiklejohn (52.6) in the 440; New London's Bob McIlrath (2:02) in the 880, where he is defending champion; Menasha's Russel Rae (4:46.8), Kaukauna's Bob Kneepkens (4:47.7), and Two Rivers' defending champion Reid Stangel in the mile.

In the other field events, New London's Steve Waterstradt is the best time in the pole vault at year with :22.1. The time is also the fastest in the state. Vander Velden also is a valuable member of Kimberly's crack 880 relay team. Koehn is right on the 2:00 mark in the 880 relay, while New 880. Wildenberg has been around the 6-3 mark all year in the high jump and is also about in the mile relay.

White Sox Throttle McLain, 7-3

Former Tiger Leads Pilots to 7-6 Win

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Wayne Comer's claim to fame as the indispensable warm-up man for Mickey Lolich during last year's World Series appears over. Instead of warming up pitchers, he is making himself known by wearing them out.

After 6 1/2 years in the minor leagues and portions of two seasons in the majors, Comer is making some noise as a hitter with the Seattle Pilots.

Washington heard from him Thursday night when he rapped a three-run homer and a two-run double that boosted the Pilots to a 7-6 victory over the Senators. The five runs batted in gave him more than he had last year with the Tigers.

In fact, the night gave him 23 RBI and six homers, along with a .253 batting average, far better than his .125 with Detroit.

Comer's outburst highlighted a night for hitters as not one American League pitcher managed to go the distance. In the other games, the Chicago White Sox jumped on Denny McLain for a 7-3 victory over Detroit. Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 6-2. Cleveland stopped Kansas City 4-1 and, in the afternoon, Boston added to California's woes with a 4-3 victory. The New York Yankees and Oakland were idle.

Comer, a 25-year-old right-hander who batted only three times for the Tigers in 1967 and 48 times last season, did get a hit in his only at bat during the series, but it was his success as a warm-up catcher for which he received special notice.

Lolich won his first two games in the series with Comer catching him between innings, a 253 batting average, far better than his .125 with Detroit.

Comer's outburst highlighted one inning of the final first inning, two on Bill Melton's game, the superstitious Lolich refused to throw. He wanted only Comer.

Comer finally arrived and Lolich went on to win the deciding game.

Never Stood Chance

But Comer never stood a chance of breaking into the power-packed Tigers' outfield, and off he went in the expansion draft to Seattle, where he has found a home.

His double in the third inning gave the Pilots a 4-2 lead. When the Senators pulled ahead 5-4 on Mike Epstein's 11th homer and sixth in five games with a man on and Ed Stroud's run-scoring hit, Comer came back with his three-run blast in the seventh. The White Sox wasted little time handing McLain his fourth setback against six victories as they scored four times in the sixth with a hand injury.

Gerry Nyman, 2-0, and Dan Osinski combined on a five-hitter for the victory at Milwaukee before 15,948 fans.

Frank Robinson hit his 12th homer in the sixth inning and then singled in the tie-breaking run in a five-run seventh in Baltimore's seventh victory in eight games. Reliever Dick Hall, 3-1, got the victory after starter Jim Hardin failed to retire a batter as the Twins took a 2-0 lead.

Starter Horacio Pina's first major league hit drove in the first run of a three-run second inning—Jose Cardenal's hit and bases loaded walk drove in hit. Comer came back with his first major league homer in the eighth for Cleveland.

Stan Williams saved the victory for Pina, 2-0, who left in the eighth.

Tigers Must Change 'Book' on Melton

By BOB GREENE
MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Detroit Tiger "book" on Bill Melton says to pitch to him in slider inside, I watched it break side. The book is probably being and got good wood on it," he rewritten today.

Melton slammed a Denny McLain off-speed slider into the left field bleachers Thursday night to cap a four-run, first-inning outburst by the Chicago White Sox. The Sox went on to win the American League contest 7-3.

"Detroit has been pitching me inside all year," Melton said after the game. "They would set me up by throwing outside, then coming back inside, hoping I would bail out of there."

"Before tonight's (Thursday's) game, I decided to stay in there and watch the ball all the way," he said.

"The first two pitches McLain

Ships Defend Net Crown at Appleton West

Whitlinger, of Neenah, Bids for FRVC Singles Title

Saturday, Neenah High School's John Whitlinger could become the youngest player to ever win the Fox River Valley Conference tennis championship.

Whitlinger, who is only a freshman, is unbeaten this season. Tomorrow the Neenah team, of which he is the pace-maker, makes its first start in a FRVC net meet.

Appleton West is again serving as host for the meet, which starts at 9 a.m.

Manitowoc, which has won the last three FRVC titles and all but one in the last decade, will defend its title. Oshkosh placed second in the 1968 meet, with Appleton East third.

Each of the 12 schools will enter three singles players and one double team.

Whitlinger and Tom Ponto lead the Neenah delegation.

Ken Ferron, Chris Heeren and Paul Bowman will handle the AHS-E singles assignment, while Dick Dafoe and Chuck Olson will play doubles.

Host AHS-W will be led by Mary Killingham and Larry Chapman.

John Savage is a hold-over from last year's championship. Manly team. He teamed with Pat Nertz to win the doubles title.

With Two Out

The blow came with two out and Duane Josephon on base. Detroit, the defending World Series champions, never were able to get back into the game.

Detroit manager Mayo Smith said the game was McLain's worst performance of the season. At least he "hasn't pitched that bad this year."

The Tiger righthander, a 31-game winner last season, had dressed and had left the clubhouse before the game was finished. Officials said he drove with his mother to the McLain's Chicago home.

Foxes Win Crown

Omro's Koch Pitches No-Hit Victory, 8-0

Omro's Ken Koch fashioned a seventh with runners at second no-hitter and the Foxes wrapped and third.

up the championship of the Little Nine Baseball Conference by handing Hilbert an 8-0 setback Thursday afternoon.

Koch had 12 strikeouts and walked none in hurling his masterpiece.

Only three batters reached base for Hilbert with one getting as far as third. He tried to score on a pitch that got away from that catcher, but was tagged out at home to preserve the shutout for Koch.

Omro sealed Hilbert's fate early by scoring six runs in the first inning off Steve Delanty. The big inning included three hits, three walks, a passed ball and an error. Big blow of the frame was a 2-run double by Tom King. John Lenz also had a double for Omro.

Have 8-1 Record
The win gives Omro an 8-1 conference record and an 11-1 mark overall.

Hortonville finished as runnerup in the conference with a 7-2 record as Dick Tennis hurled the Polar Bears to a 5-0 victory over Brillion with a 2-hitter.

Tennis struck out 12 batters and walked only one. Eric Pingle had a pair of singles and Randy Mulroy posted a single and double to lead the 8-hit Hortonville attack.

Russ Hansen and Bill Grassl had the only hits for the Lions. Denmark's Harvey Shusta stopped Shiocton on a 2-hitter in leading the Vikings to a 4-3 win over the Chiefs. Shusta saved the game when he struck out the last two batters in the talked to some of the networks but it was hard to talk it over freely until I decided to retire. I have an interview with a station in New Orleans coming up — I'd like to stay close to the game if I can.

Jerry Kramer's Retirement Now Official

He added, "I'm opening restaurants in Oshkosh and Chicago some time this summer and I'm sure I'll have to make numerous business trips up to Green Bay," he chuckled. "To keep an eye on them — especially on those weekends when the Packers are playing at home."

His new book, reportedly entitled, "Jerry Kramer's Farewell to Football," will be coming out Sept. 1, he revealed. It is a sequel to "Instant Replay," published in 1968, which still is on the best seller lists and has already sold 300,000 copies in hard cover.

"The publishers are going to come out with 1,200,000 copies of 'Instant Replay' in paperback," Kramer was happy to report. "So it's doing very well."

Establishes Record
Kramer, the National Football League's blocker of the year in 1967, also was a placekicker of some note. He filled in during the 1963 season, when Paul Hornung was suspended, and established a club record for extra points with 43. He also tied a Packer mark with 16 field goals and finished the season with 91 points.

He again was pressed into kicking service at the outset of the 1968 season after Don Chandler's retirement, but was forced to give up the assignment when he suffered a knee injury in the Pack's rematch with the Lions at Detroit Oct. 20.

Often referred to as a medical marvel, Kramer survived a broken ankle, detached retina and eight operations, following a major intestinal infection, during his Packer career. The latter kept him out of football most of the 1964 season but he returned early in 1965 and won all-pro honors in 1966 and again in 1967.

Kramer is the third Packer veteran to retire since the 1968 season ended, following quarterback Zeke Bratkowski and tackle Forrest Gregg.

May Return
It is believed, however, that Gregg, who has kept himself in spectacular condition during the

Waupaca County — Wardens Rex Oatman, Jack Kunath and Lawrence McKeivitz: Cold weather has slowed the taking of white bass; fishing should improve with change in weather. Best fishing areas are Weyauwega, Fremont and Orihula. Some good catches of panfish are being made on Partridge lake and Chain-O-Lakes. Trout fishing good on Emmons and Peterson creeks, Crystal river and Bass lake. Water normal.

Marquette County — Wardens Robert Smith, Ralph Rickardson and Kenneth Kazmar: Cold weather and rain slowed fishing considerably. Trout fishing was best on most of our northern streams with worms for bait. Northerns doing well on Lake Noquebay, Menominee and lower Peshtigo rivers. The big flowages in the western part of county are producing some catches of walleyes. Panfishing should improve with warmer weather. Water levels are a little high on most lakes and streams but most are in good condition.

Shawano County — Warden William Hoyt: Fishing pressure and success dropped along with temperature. Some limits of trout taken on the Embarrass river and on the smaller streams. Northern and walleye action on Shawano lake slow. Panfish still being taken on worms and poppers. Rivers above normal, lakes normal.

Waushara County — Warden William Baier: Pine and Pearl lakes and the upper White River millpond producing some catches of rainbow trout; night fishing best. Panfishing has slowed on most waters due to cold weather. Stream fishing for trout fair. Streams above normal due to recent rains.

Outagamie County — Wardens Dale Morey and Albert Vanderbloemen: Walleyes hitting very good on rock bars of Lake Winnebago; trolling with minnows and artificial bait provides best results. Sauger and white bass fair on north end of Lake Winnebago. Perch and northern fair on Little Lake Butte des Morts. Water normal.

Manitowoc County — Warden Darwin Krall: Trout fishing is excellent along Lake Michigan shores. Cleos are producing 20-inch rainbows at the mouth of the Little Manitowoc river. Some nice catches of browns are being taken off the pier at Two Rivers. Lake, brown and brook trout are beginning to hit along the shore at Two Rivers. Limits of walleyes are still being taken with flatfish on Bullhead lake. Bluegills are biting on worms in Round and Long lakes while some nice size northerns are being caught in Silver lake and Mud creek on minnows.

Kewaunee County — Warden Philip Hein: Some good catches of brown trout taken this week off the north breakwater at Kewaunee. Trout in inland lakes fair with best luck in early morning or evening. Panfish and northerns slow. Streams and lakes normal and clear.

Sedlachek of Oshkosh Lourdes in the 100-yard dash.

Best bet for points by Fox Lutheran, which will enter 10 athletes, is Dick Unke, who has thrown the discus over 135 feet. Beck Goldbeck could be another threat in the same event. "Butch" Meitner has heaved the shot put 45-6, and Brock Woods has recorded a 16.8 in the high hurdles. Clayton Gardiner could place in the dashes.

St. Mary will depend chiefly on Loren Miller, who has had a 10.45-second clocking in the 100 and 23.4 in the 220. Dan McClone, Steve Hoolihan, Steve Boegh and Chuck Johnson are the remaining Zephyr entrants.

Little Chute St. John is banking on its depth to make its mark in the Class C meet. The Chuters aren't favored to pick up many firsts but could be in contention with seconds and thirds.

One of the standouts in the meet should be Wayland Academy's Jim Cape, who is considered a threat in the sprints, 440, and long jump.

Key performers for St. John should be the mile relay team of Ken DeBruin, Steve Hietpas, Chris Hartjes and Jim Wegend, (who have a time of 3:36.6); Ken Van Eperen in the low hurdles (21.5); Van Eperen and Joe McMahon in the long jump (20-2 each); Jim Zornow in the 100 and 220 (10.5 and 23.7, respectively); and Paul Van Grollin the discus (130-1).

If Number 36 can handle Number 5, she can handle our brandy.

That's the kind of woman it takes to handle our brandy. Because we make a man's brandy. Our brandmaster has developed an honest-to-goodness secret ingredient for Italian Swiss Colony Brandy. We're not about to tell you what it is, except that it's a flavor essence derived entirely from very special grapes. And it gives our brandy a character similar to Cognac. Bigger, richer, fuller. Men can actually tell the difference. That's why we sell so much brandy. So can women. Which is why we'll never sell quite as much as we'd like.

Knowles Urges Support of Budget

BY HARRY MAIER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
GREEN LAKE — The theme at the 14th annual Governor's Conference on Industrial Development was used by Gov. Warren Knowles here Wednesday in an attempt to generate more statewide support for his budget now before the state legislature.

The two-day conference stressed communication and Knowles urged the more than 400 persons in attendance "to communicate their support for the state budget" with their state legislators.

In particular, he stressed the need for support of Wisconsin's educational system. "Education is the best investment you can make for the continuation of social and economic growth of this state," he said.

He reported that one-fourth of Wisconsin's population is involved in education "which makes it a costly business." He said 66 cents of every $1 spent by the state goes for education and 65 per cent of local property taxes are for education.

State Responsibility
Despite the cost, the need is there and it is the responsibility of the legislature to meet these needs, he said.

"Our state is not in bad (financial) shape when compared with other states," Knowles said.

For example, he referred to Illinois which faces a $155 million deficit in its state program.

"At the end of our fiscal year (June 30) we do not expect to have a deficit."

"During the next two years we hope to maintain a growth rate of more than 4.8 per cent which will keep us solvent," he said.

He noted that in 1967 Wisconsin's economic rate of growth was 13 per cent, well above the

Shiocton Hires Swim Instructor

SHIOCTON — Phyllis Law, girls physical education instructor at the high school, has been hired by the Lake Park Association as swimming instructor this summer.

The board of education has contributed $140 toward her wages.

The association has agreed to raise the family swimming pass to $10 this year, up $3 over the previous year. The daily fee will be 35-cents per person.

A report was given that $1,300 has been raised by the $100 Club. To become a club member a person must contribute $100 to the Lake Park fund. The money is used for improvements and equipment. Pledges collected presently totals $1,222.

national average which is slightly more than eight per cent.

Welfare Programs
In addition to education, the next most important need in the budget is support of the health and welfare programs, he maintained.

He said approximately 90,000 persons in Wisconsin receive some form of aid, either through the federal or state governments, but it would be shortsighted for us to cut back in this area.

"We cannot curb any services which have made Wisconsin the progressive state that it is and for which it has been recognized over the years," Knowles said.

He said the cuts made in his budget by the joint finance committee are not final and urged industrial representatives attending the conference to give their support to the budget through their legislators.

Task Force Support
He also urged statewide support of the findings of the Tarr Task Force which, he said, will lead to greater efficiency and economy in state operations.

He warned, however, that the job of passing the budget must be done before July 1, adding the state cannot afford to maintain the present tax base.

Knowles also spoke on the increasing problem of conglomerate mergers and the impact they're having on the state economy.

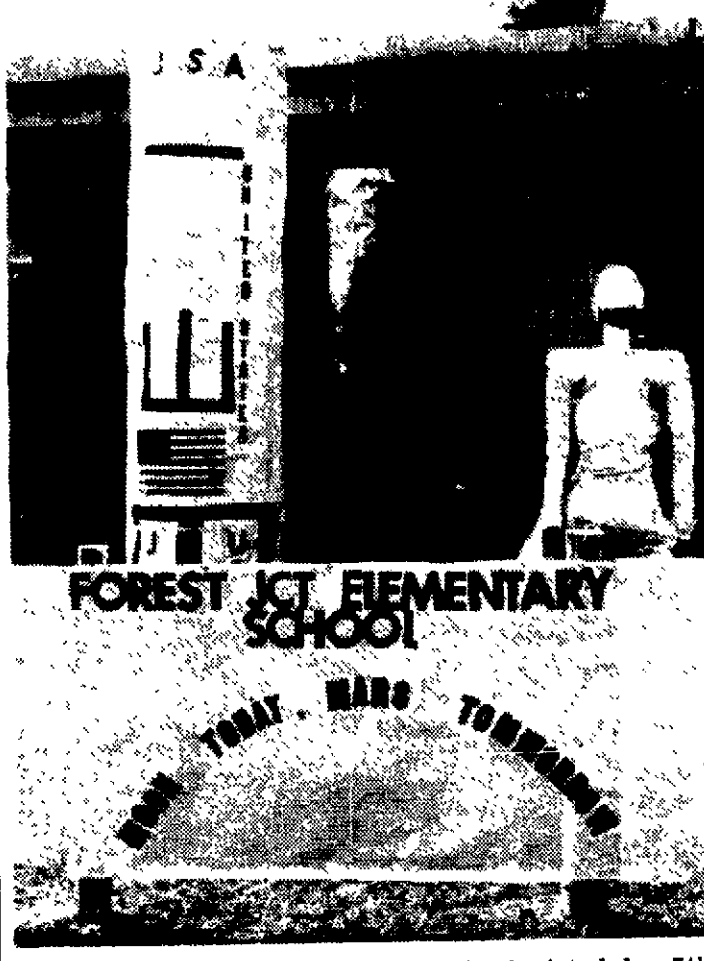

His remarks were in reference to a report released by the State Division of Economic Development prepared by Dr. Jon Udell, associate dean of the University of Wisconsin Graduate School of Business.

He noted that the mergers have resulted in a loss of revenues to service areas of business such as banks insurance, the legal profession, accounting and others.

Inheritance Tax
He also cited Wisconsin's 30 per cent state and inheritance tax which has been a factor leading to mergers involving family-owned corporations.

"It is imperative that the legislature make some changes in this tax," Knowles said.

He also cited the need to have a facility available in Wisconsin that would be attractive to conglomerates for sales and product display meetings and described the need for guidelines to assist business and industry to better learn the advantages and disadvantages of mergers.

VTE-12 Seeks Candidates for Board Posts

Nominating Group To Select Persons For Two Vacancies

Candidates to fill two vacancies on the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) board by July 1, are being sought by the selection committee, which consists of the 25 presidents of the boards of education in District 12.

A nominating committee to screen the names and interview candidates will be selected by Charles Buchanan, Appleton board president, who is chairman of the 25-man selection committee.

The decision to establish a nominating committee came at a meeting this week of the board presidents. Originally called to select the two men, the poor attendance of only seven presidents prompted the group to vote for a nominating committee.

After the committee has completed the interviews, its recommendations will be voted on by the presidents at another meeting, called by Buchanan.

Expiring Positions
Expiring July 1 are the large positions of C. G. Russell Johnson, Neenah, board president, who will be leaving the area, and Robert Schneider, Hortonville, who was selected a year ago to fill the expired term of Cyril Letter, a Seymour farmer.

According to Buchanan, Schneider has agreed to serve a six-year term but the president agreed that others should have the opportunity to be interviewed for the position.

"As all of us know, it takes a long time to get to know the board and familiarize ourselves with the situation and Schneider himself has said that he is just getting to know the problems," said Buchanan who expressed the feeling that the incumbent would be a good choice.

Seek Balance
The other candidate, it was decided, should come from Winnebago County and be elected at-large, to balance geographical representation.

The VTE-12 board meets every third Monday of the month.

Others presently serving on the board are Frank Sprister, Appleton, employee member from Outagamie County, and Donald Steinfort, Oshkosh, representing Winnebago County as an employee member.

Employer members are Harland Kirschner, Clintonville, Waupaca County and Darwin Smith, Town of Harrison, Calumet County.

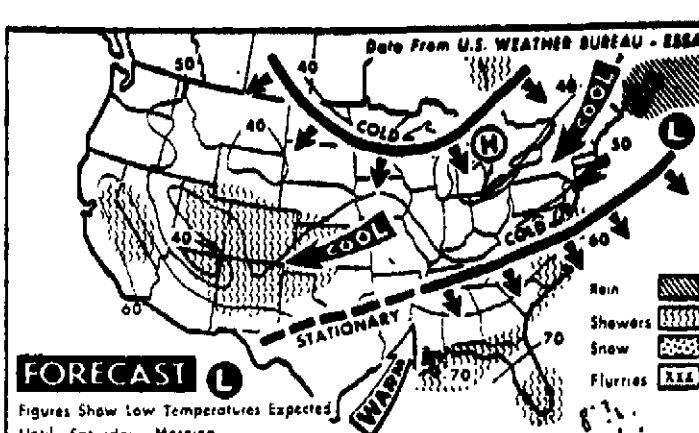

Gaylord K. Unbehauen, superintendent of schools at Brillion, is an ex-officio member and is selected by the other six members of the board.

Mitchell Is Applicant Ex-Appleton Mayor Seeks Alliance Post

Two former Fox Valley mayors, one of them from Appleton, are the latest to apply for the $16,000 a year job as executive director for the Alliance of Cities.
They were identified today as Clarence A. Mitchell, 312 W. Lindbergh St., who served as mayor here from 1958 to 1966 and is now 16th Ward alderman on the city council, and Robert Rand, former mayor of Manitowish, defeated in his April bid for re-election.
Mitchell has had 20 years' experience in public office, including aldermanic and county board positions. He also was active in the League of Wisconsin Municipalities and served on its board of trustees, along with holding membership in other government and planning-related organizations and the county GOP.
Altogether, live persons have applied for the position, including two from the Milwaukee area and one from Madison. The Alliance is comprised of 20 of the state's larger cities to give urban areas more of a voice in state legislation and matters affecting the cities and the property tax rate.
It has been the leading backer of the Tarr Task Force Report recommendations and bills arising from it and currently under consideration by the legislature.

Attempted Safety Building Revival Fails in Council

The Appleton City Council indicated disappointment Wednesday night with the action of the Outagamie County Board in its recent killing of the proposed city-county safety building project.

A move by Ald. Walter Kalata, (2nd) to "keep the door open" and revive the project failed to get the full support of the council, as did the safety building project before it was struck down by county board members.

Near the end of the council's regular meeting, Kalata asked for suspension of the rules for the council to adopt his resolution which called for letting the county board and general public know that the city still willing to participate in a joint project.

Cost Estimates
It was Kalata's position that once the county received the cost estimates of renovating the jail, it might have second thoughts and decide to participate in a joint safety building venture.

While the majority of aldermen agreed with Kalata, it wasn't enough and his motion to suspend the rules to immediately act on the resolution lacked the necessary two-thirds majority and died.

"I realize the county turned down the concept of a city-county building," Kalata told colleagues, "but what disturbs me most is that inference was made the city did not back the project, which is false."

Taxpayer Interest
Kalata asked the council to reaffirm its previous position favoring the project and to do it by unanimous vote if possible. He said it would be in the best interest of "economy for the taxpayers as well as more efficient government operation."

Ald. Robert Roemer (8th) objected and said the city had nothing to gain by such a vote. "I was there when the county board killed the safety building proposal and they knew the city was in favor of the project," Roemer said.

"There is nothing to gain by your resolution," he told Kalata. "It will merely create turmoil and stir up controversy."

"Forget It"
"Everybody knows city supervisors backed the safety building project, but it was still voted down by the majority of the county board (20-20)," Roemer replied. "Let's forget about it."

Kalata said he disagreed with Roemer and pointed out that adoption of his resolution would: —Let the public know the city council is all in favor of the joint safety building and would wipe out the innuendo that the city had not backed the proposal.

—Put the council on record as supporting and commending the Appleton members on the county board who did vote for the safety building.

Revival of Proposal
—Have the city council in the position of leaving the door open for revival of the proposal, especially in view of the close vote of the county board when defeating it.

Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) said Kalata's resolution was a good one but he didn't think it necessary at this point.

"At one time we voted unanimously in favor of the safety building project at a joint meeting with the county board," Strutz reminded.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), chairman of the city-county study committee which did considerable work in the preliminary planning for the joint facility, said he had mixed emotions over the Kalata resolution but thought the council should adopt it.

"With the closeness of the county board vote — defeating the project by only four votes — I think we should certainly keep the door open and this is a step in that direction," Ayers declared.

Unaware of Economies
He said the members of the county board who voted against the joint project were not aware of the economies and efficiency of such an arrangement and said it might take a little more time for them to grasp the situation.

"Once the county finds out just how much it will cost to remodel the jail, or whatever it wants to do now, I have a feeling they (county board) will want some more discussion on the safety building project," Ayers said, "so, I'm all for leaving the door open."

He urged aldermen to look at Kalata's resolution objectively and to take the position there was still a chance for the city and county to get together and cooperate.

"I am one of three aldermen who at one time voted against the safety building," remarked Ald. George Schwarzbauer (10th). "I fail to see any economy in a safety building for the city."

Kaukauna Kiwanis Hears Housing for Elderly Report

KAUKAUNA — To mark "Senior Citizens Month," the Kiwanis Club Tuesday night heard what Kaukauna is doing for its elderly in a talk by Mrs. Leone Van Zummeren, executive director of Golden Venture Apartments.

Mrs. Van Zummeren explained some of the features of the apartments and, reported full occupancy is expected by June 1, three months after the first residents moved into the housing complex for low income elderly. Normally, units are not filled until about six months after opening, the director said.

She reported a waiting list already was being prepared, carrying the names of people planning for the future. Persons from the city or school district have priority for residence in the apartment building, but residency rules may be waived by a vote of three of the five board members.

Although 62 is the minimum age permitted for occupancy, handicapped and disabled are allowed to rent units, so the age of residents currently in the complex ranges from 51 to 90, said Mrs. Van Zummeren. She also noted that one quarter of the tenants are men whereas similar homes in other communities in the tsate report almost 95 per cent women occupants.

Board Denies Transfer to Chilton District

STOCKBRIDGE — A petition to detach a 49-acre parcel belonging to Peter J. Woelfel from the Stockbridge district and attach it to Chilton was unanimously denied by the board of education here Thursday night. The Chilton board had previously agreed to accept the property.

The parcel, which is located on the Townline Road and is east of the village, is contiguous to the Chilton district, making it possible to be acted on by both school boards.

In his petition Woelfel gave no reason for asking for the detachment and board members noted that no high school age children were involved.

Last year several Stockbridge district borderline property owners who were paying tuition to the Chilton district for high school students had been released.

Feared 'Cronyism' Charge

Nixon Refused to Nominate Friend

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon indicates that before deciding on Warren E. Burger to be chief justice he eliminated one possible choice to avoid any charges of cronyism while four other potential candidates ruled themselves out of consideration.

In an informal meeting with newsmen in which he declined to be quoted directly, Nixon also said Thursday that lower court federal judges have an edge in filling the Supreme Court vacancy caused by Abe Fortas' resignation.

But he did say he will look at constitutional experts in universities and private law firms.

The President indicated as well that he would not consider either race or religion in appointing the new justice. Nixon announced Wednesday he was nominating Warren E. Burger, a judge on the federal Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, to be the nation's 15th chief justice, succeeding retiring Earl Warren.

Nixon indicated he had considered nominating Charles E. Rhyne, a private attorney and former official of the American Bar Association, as chief justice. But he said he dismissed this idea because Rhyne was a classmate at Duke University law school and a close friend over the years.

In the wake of the Fortas episode, he said, the court needs new judges who raise no questions of personal friendship or political consideration.

Fortas was a longtime friend and adviser to former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who elevated him to the Supreme Court. But for an adverse Senate reaction involving a "crony" issue, Johnson would have made Fortas chief justice last year.

While the choice of a chief justice was being studied at the White House, Nixon said, four other potential candidates asked that they not be considered.

He said Thomas E. Dewey, former governor of New York and twice the Republican candidate for president, bowed out because of his age, 67. He said Herbert Brownell backed away because he thought some of his actions as attorney general in the Eisenhower administration might bring Senate debate.

Nixon said Associate Justice Potter Stewart sought a personal appointment to say he felt no member of the present court should be considered for chief justice. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Nixon reported, said from the start he did not want to be considered although he had very great support for the job.

At his meeting with newsmen, the President indicated he would not announce his choice or a successor to Turn to Page 2, Col. 8

Homeward Trip Starts On Saturday

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Their most dangerous moments behind them, the Apollo 10 astronauts sailed around the moon today, charting the surface for future missions and preparing to start the long journey home Saturday.

After a hectic day in which they put Americans on the threshold of a lunar landing, Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdrs. John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan took it relatively easy today.

They photographed potential landing sites, studied lunar landmarks and perfected techniques for navigating in the moon's environment.

Mission control, noting their busy day Thursday, told the astronauts they could sleep until noon if they desired. But they were up at 8:25 a.m. CDT.

"We all had about five to six hours, pretty fair sleep," Cernan reported.

The only problem was a camera that had jammed Thursday. Cernan said the film refused to advance automatically. He used a pencil to do the job.

Apollo 10 ends its 2½ day lunar orbit period at 5:20 a.m. Saturday when the astronauts trigger their engine behind the moon's backside to start the 54-hour homeward journey. They are to splash into the Pacific Ocean near Pago Pago at 11:53 a.m. Monday.

They have a lot to report about their remarkable, sometimes hair-raising day in space Thursday.

During eight hours in which Stafford and Cernan swooped within 9.4 miles of the moon's surface, Apollo 10:

—Demonstrated that the lunar landing ship, or LEM, will operate in the moon's environment.

—Determined that the landing site chosen for the first American astronauts is smooth enough for a touchdown, but that the pilots will have to be very accurate to avoid boulders and craters.

—Showed dramatically that man can overcome problems in space and save a mission from potential disaster, where instruments alone might fail.

Stafford, Young and Cernan left little doubt that Apollo 11 will blast off for the moon July 16, carrying astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin A. Aldrin toward a landing on the area called the Sea of Tranquility.

After two looping dives over the primary Apollo 11 landing site near the crater Molke, Stafford radioed this description:

"It looks a lot smoother than some of the photos show. I estimate a 25 to 30 per cent semi-clear area, so if the LEM has enough hover time, it should not be a problem. However, if you come down in the wrong area and you don't have hover time, you're gonna have to shove off."

Boulders, Craters
The LEM can hover like a helicopter for several seconds to select a smooth touchdown area. Stafford reported several boulders and craters on the fringes of the site.

Stafford and Cernan obviously were relieved when they successfully caught and redocked with Young in the command ship after their pathfinder descent, which had a brush with danger.

"Man, we is back home," Stafford exclaimed as the two craft linked up nose to nose. They had been apart as much as 350 miles as Young kept the command ship circling at a constant altitude of 69 miles.

"Snoopy and Charlie Brown are hugging each other," was the excited cry of Young. These are the radio code names used by the two vehicles.

"That rendezvous was the best we've ever had," Stafford said.

'Free Food' Given OK

$650 Million Sought For Hunger Crusade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today recommended $650 million to combat hunger and malnutrition among the poor.

That amount was provided in a $6.8 billion measure to finance the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The committee said the department should "locate hungry people anywhere in the U.S." and provide them with free food when necessary, based on such factors as age, income and employability.

Financing in the bill to deal with hunger and malnutrition includes $311 million for children's programs and $340 million for food stamps to help feed low-income families. These programs provide low-cost lunches and milk for school children and reduced food prices for families.

Total new funds in the bill, which the House will consider next week, were $160.9 million less than President Nixon requested and $1.3 billion less than were appropriated last year.

Most of the funds in the bill, $4.96 billion, are for Commodity Credit Corporation price supports and other programs.

In a report written by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., the committee conceded that "malnutrition persists" but said "there is no single answer to the problem because malnutrition may have many different causes."

The report was critical of the news media for what it called "shocking" assertions about widespread hunger.

Much Was Staged
It singled out as an example a CBS television program called "Hunger in America," and said an investigation by the committee staff indicated that "many of the incidents described or photographed were staged as though for a Hollywood production."

Earlier today Whitten's agriculture appropriations subcommittee released staff reports critical not only of the CBS program but also of a report published last year by the Citizens Crusade Against Poverty, "Hunger, U.S.A."

While his investigators substantiated many cases of hunger, Whitten said, they found that in most cases involving children it was more likely the result of parental neglect than a lack of food.

Whitten accused newspapers and television stations of a lack of objectivity in reporting on hunger.

"Some way must be found to get the news media to accept responsibility for the objectivity and soundness of that which they publish for public consumption," Whitten said.

U.S. Sergeant Swipes Plane, Presumed Down in Atlantic

LONDON (AP) — A U.S. ground crew chief swiped a wife, Sgt. Meyer mentioned having four-engine C130 Hercules troop transport after a night of drinking and flew it out of England (7 a.m.), he told his wife, "Leave today, the U.S. 3rd Air Force me alone for about five minutes. I've got trouble."

About 12 hours later, the Air Force announced the turbo-prop aircraft is presumed down at sea, out of fuel.

The 60-ton aircraft was taken around 5 a.m. — midnight EDT — from Mildenhall Air Base by ground crash have been received.

Sgt. Paul A. Meyer, 23, of Po-quoson, Va.

Meyer flew through the radar tracks over the English Channel just north of the D-Day battlefields of Cherbourg, France.

Then he made radio contact with the Air Force and asked to be somewhere off the base Thursday night, hours before he stole to his wife in Virginia. This was the plane, an Air Force spokesman reported.

"He came back to the base escorted by civilian police and authorities on the ground," the Air Force said in a statement.

The Americans said further:

"In the conversation with his wife, Sgt. Meyer mentioned having four-engine C130 Hercules troop transport after a night of drinking and flew it out of England (7 a.m.), he told his wife, 'Leave today, the U.S. 3rd Air Force me alone for about five minutes. I've got trouble.'"

"This was the last transmission received from Sgt. Meyer. 'Since then no further radar contact has been made. No further radio transmissions have been heard and no reports of a ground crash have been received.'"

"USAF authorities are assuming that the aircraft is down at sea. The aircraft fuel would have been exhausted by this time."

Army Postpones Transfer

Dissenter Ordered to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A soldier in the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier honor guard who says the Army is trying to silence his Vietnam war objections by sending him to the combat zone has won a temporary delay in the transfer.

Sgt. Michael Sanders, 22, was given the seven-day delay Thursday night by Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor after the two senators from Sanders' home state of Kentucky intervened. Sanders, who has only seven months to go before discharge, had been due to report Saturday to Oakland, Calif., en route to Vietnam.

Funeral Escort
The young sergeant who also served in the White House color guard and was a military escort to Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower during her husband's state funeral said he believes his transfer to Vietnam was based on an antiwar interview he gave a newspaper reporter.

The Army said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, inquired about Sanders after receiving a copy of the interview published Feb. 9 in the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal. The Army said Westmoreland did not question the man's fitness for honor duty nor was he informed of the transfer orders.

In an interview Thursday about the pending transfer orders, Sanders said: "I don't feel anyone who opposes the war should be there at all. I feel that the Army is violating my constitutional right of free speech. They are, in fact, silencing me by sending me to Vietnam."

The Army said Sanders was included in a routine selection of troops for reassignment including three other sergeants of the 3rd Infantry at nearby Ft. Myer, Va., parent unit of the elite honor guard.

Sanders, who lives off base with his wife and infant son, contended that men reaching his status in the 15-man spit and polish honor guard have been virtually immune from being sent to the war.

"I have never heard of men levying out a sergeant, a commander of the relief. In that job, you're practically irreplaceable," he said.

In the interview, given by Sanders with Army permission in the underground honor guard headquarters at Arlington National Cemetery, the sergeant said:

"I am very much opposed to our Vietnam involvement and, I think, so is practically everyone else on duty here."

Sees No Conflict
"My duty is here, and I consider myself a representative of the American people, paying tribute to the unknown soldiers of World Wars I and II and Korea. I don't see any conflict at all in that."

Sanders dropped out of the junior class at the University of Kentucky to enlist in the Army's medical internship program. He switched duty, however, rather than extend his three-year enlistment as required under the intern program.

He said in the Thursday interview he could not remember exactly "when I became politically involved." He said it was gradual after joining the Army.

"I felt our involvement in Vietnam as taking a form I rather detested," Sanders said.

Sgt. Michael Sanders thinks his rights are being violated by an Army order sending him to Vietnam allegedly for war dissent. (AP Wirephoto)

U.S. Casualty Rate on Planes, Helicopters Continues to Rise

SAIGON (AP) — Forty-two more American planes and helicopters were lost in Vietnam in the past week, raising the total for the war to 5,388, the U.S. Command announced today.

The weekly summary of aircraft losses said the toll for the week included 27 helicopters and 15 fixed-wing aircraft shot down, destroyed on the ground by enemy shelling or lost to other causes. The total was six less than the week before, when 40 helicopters and eight planes were destroyed.

A total of 2,713 fixed-wing planes and 2,675 American helicopters now have been lost since Jan. 1, 1961. Military sources estimate their total value at $5.6 billion.

Phantom Fighter Downed

Among the casualties in the past week were two $2 million F4 Phantom fighter-bombers and a four-engine KC130 tanker lost in a collision during refueling operations off the coast last Sunday. Eight crewmen were killed.

Two of the helicopters were shot down Thursday northeast and northwest of Saigon. Two Americans were killed and one was wounded in the crashes.

Meanwhile, scattered ground fighting was reported in the war and U.S. B52 bombers maintained their pressure on North Vietnamese buildup areas north of Saigon and in the Central Highlands near Dak To.

Seven waves of the giant Stratofortresses dropped more than 1,200 tons of bombs in the continuing campaign to harass enemy troops and prevent them from massing for a major drive. Some of the bombers hit targets 55 miles northwest of Saigon. Others zeroed in on positions 34 miles northeast of South Vietnam's capital city.

Another wave of B52s attacked enemy base camps near Dak To, 275 miles northeast of Saigon, where fresh North Vietnamese troops reportedly have infiltrated from Laos and Cambodia.

Sharp ground fighting broke out in one of the infiltration corridors 53 miles northwest of Saigon early today. North Vietnamese troops shelled the night bivouac of a battalion of South Vietnamese paratroopers 2½ miles from the Cambodian border, then made a ground attack. Field reports said 34 North Vietnamese and three government soldiers were killed and 26 paratroopers were wounded. The paratroopers were blocking an approach to Tay Ninh city, which is under constant threat.

U.S. and south Vietnamese troops reported three ground actions Thursday in which they said a total of 152 of the enemy were killed.

In the Mekong Delta, U.S. 9th Division infantrymen fought a 12-hour battle and reported killing 101 Viet Cong. American casualties were found wounded.

Two miles away, a South Vietnamese force reported killing another 32 Viet Cong.

At the northern end of the country, U.S. Marines reported they spotted about 40 North Vietnamese on the move, set an ambush and killed 19. These were no American casualties, the Marines said. The action occurred northwest of Cam Lo about two miles south of the Demilitarized zone, and officers in the area said the North Vietnamese force came from the DMZ.

Warren Calls Early Meeting To Study Rules

Financial Dealings Of Nation's Judges To Face Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren, moving in the still heavy wake of the Abe Fortas affair, has called a special meeting of federal judges to consider proposed rules to govern the financial dealings of the U.S. judiciary.

Warren has summoned the 11-member Court Administration Committee for a meeting Saturday, three months before its next scheduled session.

It was obvious that Warren, who steps down as chief justice next month, proposed the early meeting to overcome any public doubt about the nation's court system following the resignation under fire of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas.

No agenda is set for the meeting, but the judges from U.S. circuit and district courts are expected to discuss bills pending in Congress that would require judges to disclose their income and investments.

Fortas tendered his resignation during the furor caused by disclosure he had received a $20,000 fee in 1966 from the family foundation of financier Louis E. Wolfson.

Justice William O. Douglas also has been criticized in Congress for collecting annual fees from the Parvin Foundation, which had business ties with legal Nevada gambling interests. And it was revealed Thursday that Chief Justice-designate Warren E. Burger has received $7,500 as a trustee of the Mayo Foundation since he has been a federal circuit judge.

Ernest C. Friesen, director of the administrative office of the United States Courts, said Thursday the committee could frame hard proposals for consideration later by the U.S. Judicial Conference or could appoint a committee to study the problems of judicial conduct and disclosure.

Warren heads the conference, a network of leading federal judges, which over the past 27 years has laid down a series of rules for judges—but no total code as such. Currently there is nothing requiring a judge to reveal his income sources or investments.

'Might Cost a Million'

Manned Trip to the Moon? Too Costly, Lindbergh Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh, "The Lone Eagle" of pioneer aviation, says rocket pioneer Robert Goddard told him in 1929 a moon voyage was theoretically possible but economically impossible.

In a rare public utterance, with reporters and news photographers barred, Lindbergh philosophized about the future of American aviation and reminisced about Goddard.

He said Goddard told him it was possible to send a multi-stage rocket to the moon.

"Then he smiled a little bit and said it might cost a million dollars and, of course, that was out," Lindbergh recalled.

In the U.S. budget for fiscal year 1969 alone, the Apollo moon landing program is estimated to cost $2.3 billion.

Lindbergh's remarks to a recent meeting of the Air Line Pilots Association were tape-recorded with his permission and just made available for publication. Since the famous kidnapping of his firstborn son,

Father, Son Are Killed in Crash

Deaths of a father and son in a Milwaukee expressway accident pushed Wisconsin's 1969 traffic fatality figure to 323 today compared with 400 on the same date in record 1968.

Raymond Huven, 43, and his son, Larry, 21, were killed late Thursday when their car skidded on an expressway exit ramp at the Milwaukee County Stadium exchange and collided with another car.

Marc Souvion, 22, of Philadelphia, Pa., died Thursday when his car crashed beside a Vilas County highway.

Fortas, the first justice to quit under fire, was regarded as holding the "Jewish seat" on the nine-member Supreme Court. There also are justices considered to hold the "Catholic seat," currently William J. Brennan, and the "Negro seat," occupied by Thurgood Marshall.

Nixon said he does not believe any ethnic or racial group has an assigned seat on the court.

reported. "We were right up the tail all the way."

It was a rendezvous that almost didn't take place.

Report Problem

Two and one-half hours before the command and lunar modules were to undock, the astronauts reported a problem in depressurizing the tunnel that connects the two.

Corrective action to overcome this caused the docking rings between the two vehicles to slip out of alignment by three degrees.

Just before Apollo 10 disappeared behind the backside of the moon, where it would be out of radio contact for the critical separation, mission control advised the astronauts not to undock if the rings moved another three degrees.

For 40 minutes ground controllers held their breath until Apollo 10 returned to the front side. There was elation when tracking picked up two separate objects. Then Cernan advised: "We're about 30 or 40 feet away."

A series of engine burns started the LEM dipping toward the Sea of Tranquility. As it approached the Apollo 11 site at 3,700 miles per hour, Stafford excitedly described one area: "There's enough boulders here to fill Galveston Bay."

"We're Close, Babe!"

Over the site, Cernan called out: "We're right there. We're right over it! I'm telling you, we're low, we're close, babe! This is it!"

"There's plenty of holes there," Stafford said, "but the surface is actually very smooth, like very wet clay. . . with the exception of the bigger craters."

Two hours later, on a second approach to the site, Stafford and Cernan jettisoned the lower half of their craft, the descent stage. The purpose was to practice for a moon-landing mission when the astronauts will shed the stage on blastoff from the lunar surface.

At the moment of separation, the cabin section began to vibrate wildly. The first word of trouble was Cernan's excited down-to-earth exclamation: "Son of a bitch!"

"Hit the AGS, hit the AGS," he called to Stafford, referring to the abort guidance system. Stafford did and was able to control the LEM after several harrowing seconds.

Switch Misplaced

"I don't know what the hell that was, baby," Cernan said later, "but that was something. I thought we were wobbling all over the sky."

Mission control said the vibrations occurred because a guidance system switch was out of place. Controllers took the blame for failing to call up a re-positioning of the switch to the astronauts.

After transferring back to the command ship early today and kicking the LEM free in space, Stafford and Cernan reported they were tired and asked permission to cancel an early morning telecast.

As he watched the fragile ship zip away into space, Cernan said rather sadly, "I feel bad about that. He's a pretty nice guy. He treated us pretty well."

Senators Hope for Unity Closed-Door Debate on Budget Set Next Week

MADISON (AP) — A Republican leader has predicted GOP senators will be busy with closed-door debate next week, trying to iron out their intra-party collision over the state's budget for the 1969-71 fiscal period.

"It took the Joint Finance Committee four months to reach an agreement. I don't think we can do it in a few days," said the Senate's majority leader, Ernest Keppler.

The stage for a Republican split was set earlier in the week when the finance committee handed the Senate a budget, tax-increase package representing about $155 million less in spending than Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles had proposed in his pre-committee, $1.6 billion blueprint.

One faction favors the Joint Finance Committee's reduced version of the budget while another supports a substitute budget bill introduced Wednesday. The substitute bill would restore about $100 million to education and welfare programs eliminated by the Joint Finance Committee.

The GOP leaders who control the Senate called a quick caucus to map strategy after a motion to send the substitute bill to the Joint Finance Committee. With the committee being criticized by the governor for its approach to welfare and education budgets, his allies on the Senate floor offered an alternate budget plan similar to that of Knowles' original budget.

Keppler, of Sheboygan, said the conflicting drafts probably will lead to several caucus sessions next week among Republicans, who outnumber the Democrats 23-9 in the Senate.

The GOP leadership was in caucus Thursday after Sen. James Swan of Elkhorn, a Republican member of the Joint Finance Committee, asked that the alternate plan from Knowles' Senate forces be sent to the committee too.

Swan replied to what he called Democrats' "meat ax" criticism by insisting the committee, although concerned about a need for tax increases, had nevertheless confined its budget-cutting tools to "tweezers and pruning shears."

Unilateral Troop Pull-Out Still Likely

It should not be assumed from President Nixon's new peace proposal that all unilateral troop withdrawals from South Vietnam are ruled out.

Nixon set out a detailed plan of mutual withdrawal over a 12-month period to be closely supervised by an international body.

But before agreement of any such plan is reached, the President may very appropriately decide to pull out U. S. troops as soon as the military situation warrants it.

For surely this country's intermediate aim in the Vietnam war must be a reduction in the level of fighting — as soon as possible.

Troop withdrawals have been rumored for a number of months to accomplish this end, and the rumors are still current. It is a reasonable assumption that the President can not afford to wait until a full military agreement is reached in Paris with North Vietnam, which may be many months off.

First, however, he will have to win the support and obedience of our military forces. Averell Harriman, who headed the U. S. team when negotiations began in Paris, had some disturbing remarks to make in this regard recently.

The elder statesman, who can speak a little more freely now that he is disassociated from the talks, indicated that the recent escalation of the fighting by the enemy may well have resulted from over-aggressive actions by U. S. forces.

Before the period of intense fighting, he disclosed, the North Vietnamese had withdrawn large numbers of troops across their borders, leaving many others just inside South Vietnam. Our troops answered this withdrawal by pressing their temporary advantage to the hilt, rather than taking the opportunity to disengage.

Certainly many elements of the military still favor a military victory. They probably have not taken too kindly to Nixon's peace proposals. President Nixon will have to teach them how to follow orders.

Sex Education Fills a Need

It looks as though sex education is the next quarry of some extremist right wing groups.

These groups see sex education as part of a Communist plot. The aim of the plot is to destroy the moral character of our upcoming generation so that they may be easily conquered by the Communists.

Some of the usual tactics have been used by these fanatics. They are publishing pamphlets full of half-truths, exaggerations and outright falsehoods designed to stir parents' emotions. They are disrupting meetings and spreading rumors.

We cannot take this kind of criticism seriously, though the tactics are disturbing. Of more concern are the parents who honestly feel their children will be taught to misuse sex by a program of sex education in the schools. Many feel that no part of sex can be taught without also teaching sexual morality.

There can be little doubt that parents have the primary right and duty to instill morality in their children, and closely allied with the parents in that duty is the church.

Yet certainly the schools can help to teach the objective facts of sex. It is perfectly evident that children are not getting enough of these facts from the right sources now. Parents simply have not provided full information. As a result, children have only sketchy knowledge when they form their values and opinions about sex.

The schools can place sex in the everyday context of human growth and development, of health education and hygiene, of parenthood and child rearing. It is an integral part of these important subjects. In these contexts, sex becomes a natural part of life, rather than a mysterious taboo surrounded by fears and misunderstanding.

Most schools which have programs that include sex education have been able to reach a clear understanding with the parents of the community on what should be taught, and what should not. The most sensitive subjects may be left to the parents. Schools also try to get parents to attend sessions in the school, and make special provisions to show parents the materials which are used. All of these steps should ease the fears of parents.

It is no accident that commercial interests and the lower arts can make a huge success today in their lavish use of sex appeal. For in the absence of proper sex education, many adults and many young people have never really grown up about sex, and all that advertising capitalizes on their immaturity.

Old Wood Roads Tell a Story

Today's speeding traffic on arteries of cement and macadam carries a nation's business and its people. But away from the noise and the smell of acrid fumes, he who will, can discover peaceful country roads that meander through small valleys and wind along shoulders of hillsides.

Branching from the old dirt roads, one can find the wood roads that wander off through the trees. Along these roads men and boys hauled lumber a century and more ago. After the pioneering days had passed, farmers found they could ship oak and chestnut, white pine and ash to city markets. It meant a cash product from the farms in a season when regular farm work was not pressing.

Now the old wood roads are dim trails that tell of an era gone. Shrubs and trees have come into the roads on which double-runner sleds once ran. But there are places, especially in the sandy pinelands, where the trails are still distinct.

Old wood roads are not exciting. They don't require the adjectives that are common in a blatant, noisy era. The old roads have appeal to him who likes to get away from the cacophony of man's marketplace and the cages of glass and cement that make canyons of city streets.

In the quiet of the woodland, along an old road, one may see a mother partridge leading her brood. Ovenbirds toss their "teacher-teacher-teacher."

The old roads among the trees are going back to nature, but for a long time they will tell a story to the perceptive.

Does Nerve Gas Make Any Sense?

As the United States builds up its stockpiles of deadly weapons, the greatest threat may be to Americans.

Some ten days ago a train carrying ammunition for Vietnam caught fire and exploded. Fortunately it happened in a desert area and no one was killed or seriously hurt. Then there was a fire in an Atomic Energy Commission installation near Golden, Colorado with the release of a considerable quantity of highly radioactive plutonium. Officials, however, insist that the contamination did not go beyond the immediate site. Then, more than a year ago, contamination from nerve gas accidentally spilled near a grazing range killed several thousand sheep.

Now the United States Army is stuck with a large supply of nerve and mustard gas obsolete by the deadly standards of 1969. How can it get rid of it? The proposal to haul it by train more than a thousand miles and then dump it into the Atlantic Ocean has been postponed at least temporarily because of fears of a train accident and of the effects upon the ecology of the sea.

Certainly research should be made into some other way to dispose of the deadly gases if possible. No matter what the precautions, accidents can and do happen.

As a matter of fact, it is high time for a considered study of the extent of our preparations for waging war with chemicals and germs and whether there is any sense to it at all.

Looking Backward
Swell, Popiniays Everywhere

Quoted from the Appleton Post for May 13, 1969.

There is in every place a class of swells, usually of the feminine persuasion whose wants can never be satisfied by the merchants of their own locality.

The Vienna Cod-Fish orders her trimmings from Constantinople — the Parisian belle from Vienna. The New York butterfly gets rigged up in Paris, the Chicago dandy in New York.

The Oshkosh "exquisite" must have fixins' from Chicago, and the Appleton Beau Brummels and Marie Antoinettes must go to Oshkosh to get their "nice goods."

There is no use arguing with these popiniays, of showing them that Appleton merchants can and do sell goods of equal quality and sometimes cheaper than it is possible for Oshkosh merchants to — for neither cheapness nor quality enter into the account.

The point with them is to be able to say, "I bought this hat or bonnet, coat or shawl, in Oshkosh or in Chicago."

This is a great achievement and their little gizzards swell with honest vanity as they utter the magic words.

Well, we have no objections. Let the dear little fools alone. They do nobody harm, except exposing themselves to the ridicule of sensible people.

Taylor Writes
U.S. Intelligence Guards Carefully
Against Perfidy of Double Agents

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

German-born renegade Soviet spy Heinz Felfe has been exchanged back to the Russian KGB secret service.

The unrevealed effect on our national security is enormous.

In the case of Felfe, who always looked as if he had spent a previous life as a wolf, he was a double agent working for the KGB inside the West German Federal Intelligence Service, the BND.

At the end of the war Felfe, a professional Nazi, was chief of the Gestapo headquarters in Salzburg, Austria. The Russians recruited all the Gestapo people they could round up and put them into the East German Staatssicherheitsdienst (STB) secret police. Then, in the guise of defectors, they gradually infiltrated them into the Bonn BND.

VEVING DECISIONS

Felfe operated for Moscow inside the BND for 11 years before he was apprehended in 1963. He delivered the KGB more than 15,000 Western allied intelligence photographs and 300 rolls of secret film and betrayed 95 American and other undercover operatives to his Red chiefs.

This is the crux of the problem. A knowledgeable defector is useful for the information he can supply. Merely to accept him for this purpose is easy. But when he has told get the honey. But if he is a plant by the enemy? That is an excruciating decision but it cannot be ducked if an effective network is to be built and sustained.

The STB made the wrong decision in accepting Heinz Felfe, of course, but the highest palm in espionage goes to the manager willing to make that vital decision and his ability to make it right. This requires a rare, intuitive sense — and real courage.

USSR VERY PATIENT

There are established techniques in such screenings to guard against the double-agent danger, for a penetrated U.S. intelligence service is not just a bad one, it can be an appalling liability. Instead of an indispensable eye, it can become a deceiving voice destroying its own purpose of our national security.

Good interrogators collect their testing information drip by drip. British writer Len Deighton wisely makes this point. Also the good interrogator must, hypnotically, return again and again to any tiny crack in the smooth surface of the defector's story. An agent planted in the guise of a defector always and only tells lies that contain a great deal of truth in them and will follow up any debating advantage.

Patience is the key to KGB covert programming. It relies heavily on the "sleeper" method. Soviet espionage managers think nothing of obtaining a recruit, training him completely or "making him over" into a citizen of another country, and then not utilizing him actively for perhaps eight or 10 years.

FBI ONLY PROTECTION

The KGB's two largest agent-training centers are at Kutchinsk, outside Moscow, and Barkova, 40 kilometers from the city. It slips espionage trainees from these into countries abroad first for a year or more to familiarize them with the target country. Then they are brought back to Kutchinsk or Barkova. After another seven or eight years — fully that long — the trainees are sent back to the country with a complete set of false documents as nationals of the country, skilled enough to obtain good positions in government, science, defense, the communications industries and media, etc. The Soviet's constant, patient, long-term planting of this seed is its reservoir strength.

The sole true protection we have here is, blessings be, the F. B. I.

Mature Approach at LU to be Commended

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I cannot let the demonstration by the Lawrence University students of the last weekend and against the Vietnam war go without making some commendatory comment.

First of all, I should indicate I am one of those citizens who drove past a number of times, staring and looking to see what the situation was all about. I did ascertain on one occasion, when looking at one of the brochures held up by a student, that it was a 48-hour fast in protest against the Vietnam war.

The substance of what I wish to say is that I feel the Appleton community and adults in general should be extremely grateful and proud that such a thing could have happened in our community. I think of no finer way that the students could have brought attention to the viewpoint they espoused.

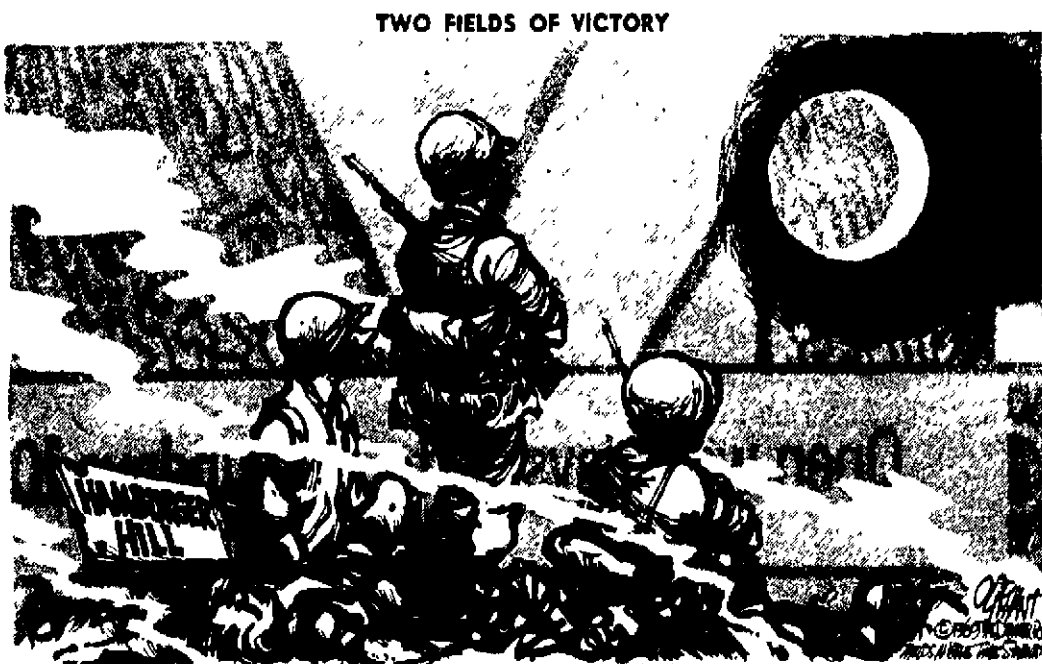

In this day of constant difficulty with violence and counter-violence, I think both the administration and the students are to be commended for their very mature approach. I wish I could only say the same thing for my fellow adults and citizens in the City of Appleton.

In closing, on a personal note, I can only say to those students who have expressed themselves so eloquently by this demonstration that I am proud to be a member of the same community with them.

Wisconsin Report
Expect Legislature
To Allow 30 Per Cent Increase in Budget

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — One of the benefits of an otherwise equivocal convention of the Republican voluntary party campaign organization last weekend was to isolate and thereby considerably clarify for the average citizen the meaning of the dispute about the level of state financing in Madison for the next two years.

This reporter has had the uncomfortable feeling for some time that the recital day after day in the news dispatches of the literal figures in the budget dispute doesn't mean much to the average taxpayer. The fact of a $1.6 billion dollar Knowles request, his peeling off of some $250 millions from the original demands of the agencies, and finally, the tentative decision of the legislative financial leaders to draw down authorized spending about $150 millions below the Knowles figures require the relation of those sums to what has gone before.

USE SIMPLE PERCENTAGES

It was perhaps for those reasons that the Republican politicians worried about the

SOMEWHERE BETWEEN

It is now a fair surmise that the final decision will fall somewhere between the 23 per cent of the finance committee and the 35 per cent of the governor — and that the agencies involved will settle for it quickly, if not altogether happily, if they can.

Such a settlement would fit the relatively indecisive position of the Republican state organization as illustrated by its equivocal convention resolution on state finance. The convention wanted to endorse the view of the finance committee, but it also hesitated to do so in a way that would explicitly repudiate the governor.

Thus the way is open, if the party organization's feelings are important in this regard for a spending pattern falling between what the governor says is essential and what the legislative leaders say is tolerable. A good guess now would be a budget increase and about 30 per cent. This would not satisfy nearly all the aspirations of the spending agencies but will appear to the man in the ranks contemplating his tax bills past and prospective to be generous, even taking into account the acceptance as necessities of many expenditures that only a few years ago were regarded as luxuries.

There remains a temptation to say that this politically debilitating dispute would not have happened — if all the principals were planning to face the electorate this year.

Wyngaard

tax implications of their administration's demands were speaking to an audience outside the hall at Green Bay, via the news media, and carefully used simple percentages to illustrate what has been going on.

The news from Madison would have been a good deal more intelligible for the last five or six months if the officials in control of the budget deliberations, executive and legislative, had used that device too.

Here then is what has been going on, in percentage terms:

The dozens of agencies and institutions had presented the governor with spending proposals, all of them couched in the most urgent and necessary terms, amounting to 53 per cent more than they had been permitted during the biennial period now ending. That was considerably higher than the ratio of increased requests ever recorded before.

Strictly Personal
True Lady Graciously
Accepts Compliments

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I don't know whether those dubious "charm schools" teach this or not, but one of the marks that invariably distinguish a lady from a female is the former's ability to accept a compliment graciously.

When a man tells a woman "You are looking particularly lovely tonight," he fails to appreciate the deprecatory response, "Oh, I'm just a mess," or "I haven't been able to do a thing with my hair," or "The new dress I really wanted to wear didn't come in time."

Perhaps they think they are being modest, but actually it is a kind of arrogance — and an insult to the complimenter. It is an insult to his taste, as if to say, "You think I look lovely only because your standards are so low — but you should see me when I really look nice."

I have always found modesty much more insufferable than outspoken pride. I can respect a woman who answers, "I'm glad you find me attractive," or even, "I think so, too," but when you tell her she is lovely and she gurgles insipidly, "Why, I don't even think I'm pretty," then she is not only underbred, but a fool and a hypocrite as well. (And she is usually the same type who complains that "American men never give compliments the way European men do.")

When a woman puts a great deal of time, effort and expense into preparing herself for a social function, it seems to me that she should also be prepared to handle a compliment dexterously. In this not, after all, precisely the reaction she hoped to evoke from the men?

Most often, females pretend to be surprised that you find a certain frock quite becoming — as if they hadn't spent painful hours in picking it out, but happened to stumble across it while passing a rubbish heap.

"It's a really nothing," they are fond of saying — implying that they normally might be expected to wear a velvet turban six feet high, surmounted by a crest of rubies.

"Charm" is one of the most used and misused words in the American woman's lexicon. It has little to do with properly painting the face or walking as though a basket of grapes were perched on your head — but it has everything to do with making a man feel both witty and gallant when he is neither.

It is rude to rebuff or sluff off a compliment as to return a gift unopened. This may be the real reason American men are so reluctant to offer a sincerely flattering word to an insincerely fluttering female.

booklet, "Diabetes, the Sneaky Disease." I enclose 35 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

Can you tell me where to get a cook book of cakes, pies, and desserts using artificial sweeteners? I have no luck finding one in book stores. — Mrs. L. E. W.

Diabetes — one of the most widespread chronic diseases we have to combat — isn't too hard to understand, basically, although related problems can become very complicated indeed.

Here it is in a nutshell. The human body has to produce insulin (in the pancreas) in order to use up sugar, which represents energy, in the blood.

When not enough insulin is available, that's diabetes.

The answer either give extra insulin, by injection, or use the newer "diabetes pills," which will reduce the sugar level in cases that are not too severe, or in very mild cases, change the diet so the patient doesn't get more sugar than he can handle.

Usually a combination of diet plus either insulin or pills is necessary.

Remember that it isn't just ordinary table sugar. You also have to calculate the amount of natural sugar in fruits and other foods. And starches are quickly turned into sugar in the system and protein is converted similarly, although more slowly and in smaller degree.

So that's why total food intake is important, besides eliminating ordinary table sugar entirely. You'll find this explained in the booklet, which you have by now.

"A Cook Book for Diabetics" is published by the American Diabetes Association and will be of a great deal of help to you in planning menus. You can get it through your local Diabetes Association, or by writing to the American Diabetes Association, 18 East 48th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017. It costs about $1.

But a word of warning: cakes, pies and such desserts, even when made with artificial sweeteners, do not belong in the diet of a diabetes patient. Why not? Because, as I pointed out above, the flour and other ingredients will be turned into sugar by the patient's digestive apparatus, and thus increase the problem.

This does not mean that the diabetic can't have some form of dessert. This he in the form of fresh or unsweetened canned fruits, certain gelatin preparations and others that the cook book will suggest to you.

Local diabetes associations have classes in nutrition, and your doctor should refer you to such a group, or to a dietitian, so you can learn how to arrange menus that will be best for your husband.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My eyebrows are becoming quite gray. I have asked beauty salon operators to tint them, but they say there is danger of becoming blind from the dye. — Mrs. V. M.

If dye got into the eye, it could be irritating, but carefully applied just to the eyebrows by an expert operator it will not cause blindness.

Note to P. C. This is at least the second time I've answered that same rumor. Neither the brand you mention nor any brand of cigarettes will cause sterility. (There are enough other things they do to you, that there's no need for any more.)

"Tips On How To Stop Smoking," by Dr. Thosteson, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Is anyone willing to take a chance?

Dear Reverend, Father or Rabbit: We understand why you love to raffle off Cadillacs, T-Birds and Continentals. They draw the crowds.

But consider the poor soul who wins. He has to pay about $1000 in income tax. At least $425 a year for gas. And who knows how much for oil and antifreeze.

Now think how charitable it would be to raffle off a Volkswagen Fastback Sedan. It needs only about $420 for income tax. About $150 a year for gas. No antifreeze. And, it takes pints of oil, not quarts.

Now you may ask, what makes this Volkswagen fancy enough to raffle off?

Well, it comes with wall-to-wall carpeting. Front seats that adjust to 49 positions. Fold-down arm rests in the rear. An electric clock. And, as options: automatic transmission and air conditioning.

So, if you're thinking of raffling off a fancy car, lift up your eyes.

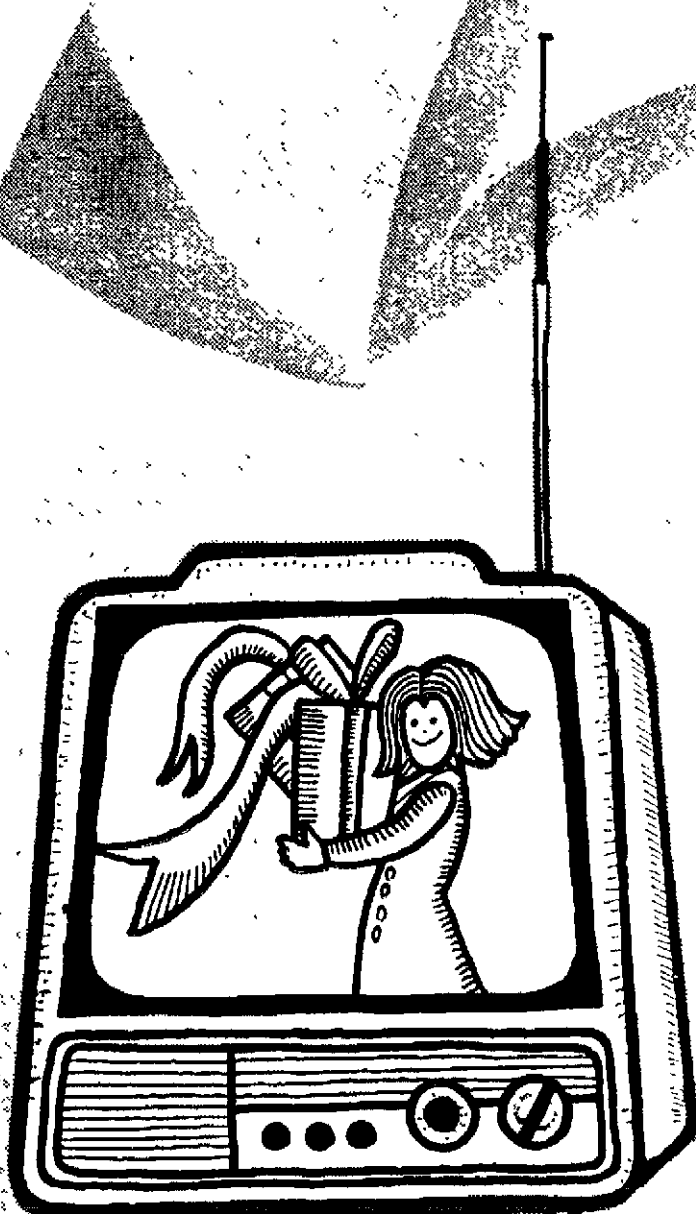

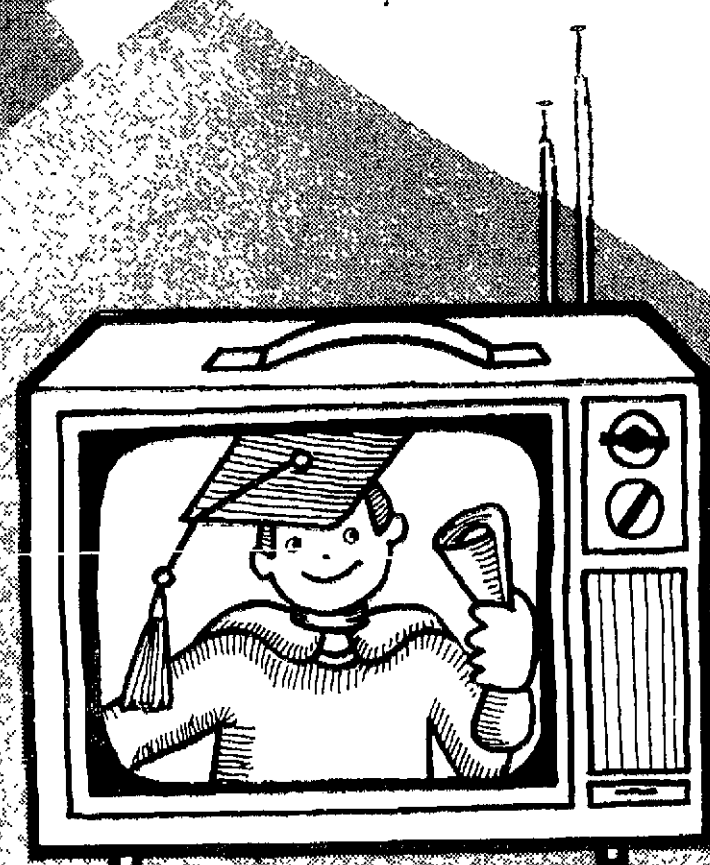

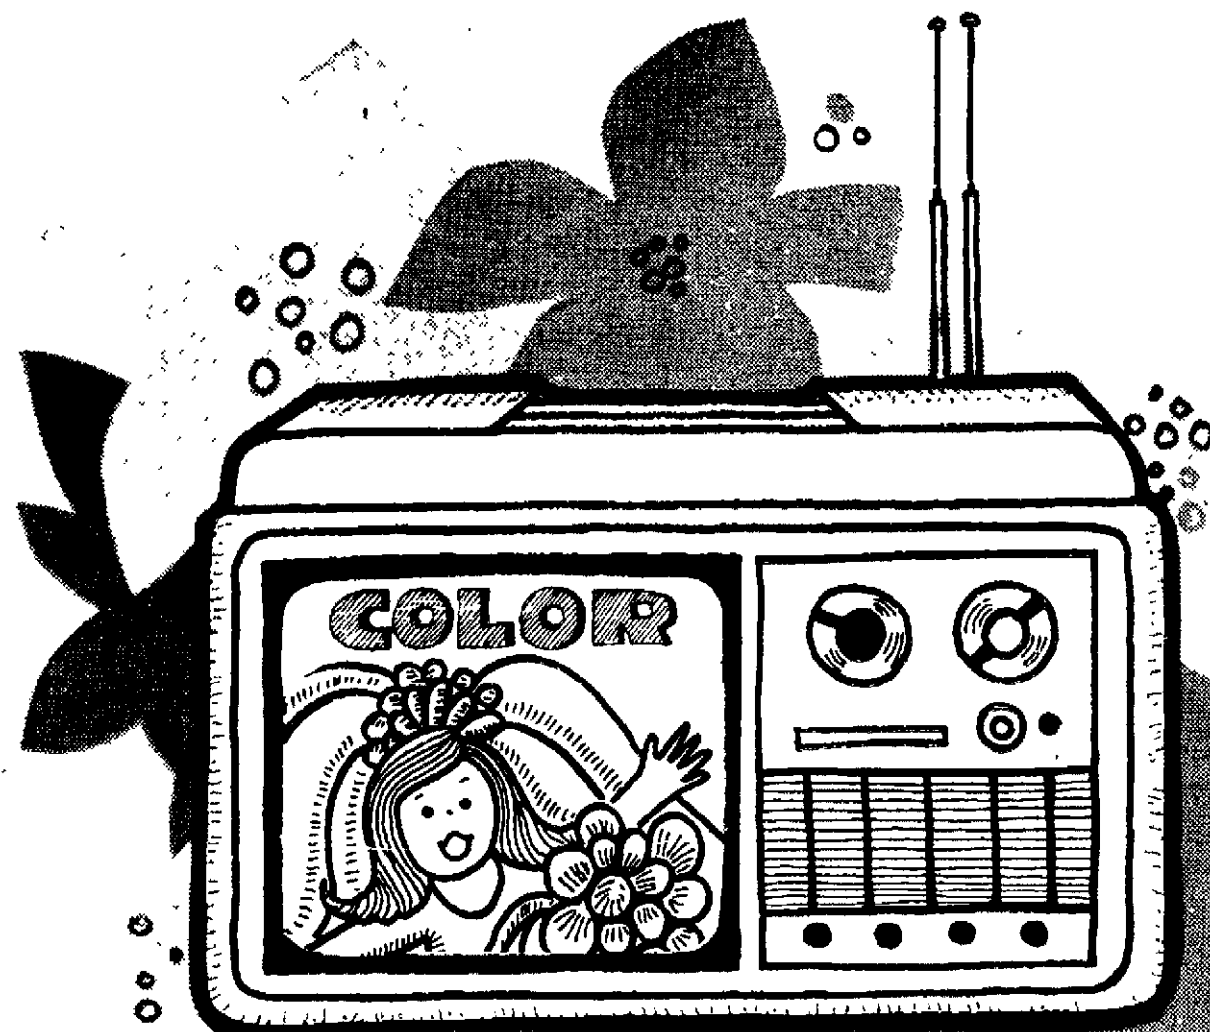

And behold. The Volkswagen Fastback Sedan.
